Payroll Nabbed Here—This is the cashier's cage at the American Sugar Refinery Co. plant in Granite st., South Boston, where four gunmen stole a $29,348 payroll today. The bandits, in staging the robbery, overpowered a guard and threatened more than 30 employes. Barbara Green, the plant telephone operator [see right], phoned police while the holdup men were in the cashier's cage.

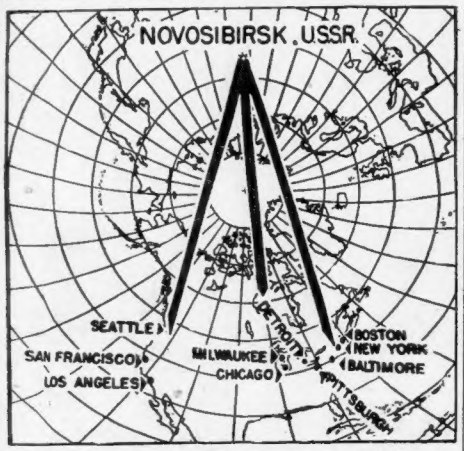
Reds Set to War Instantly on U. S.

By KENT HUNTER
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—A frightening picture of America's unpreparedness in the face of an arrogant Russia is in the hands of the Joint Air Policy Board of Congress.



IN RANGE—Russian aviation development has reached the stage of manufacture of 10,000-mile maximum-range bombers, capable of "over the cap" attacks from Soviet bases east of the Ural Mountains. Map shows key American cities, including Boston, in the range of the new aircraft.

International News Soundphoto Map

It represents the sworn testimony of five military men selected for their ability and training to put the picture before Congress.

It should shock the American citizenry into unanimous demand for immediate action by Congress to provide military security for America now, with universal military training as a keystone of defense.

Here are the basic points of this testimony, still held back from the American people by Congress:

Russia does not need to wait 10 or 15 years to begin the waging of an offensive war.

HUGE AIR FORCE

Russia indicated readiness to go to war, and preparedness to do so, when she seized the governments of Romania and Hungary and dared either the U. S. or UN to do anything about it.

Russia has an air-war manufacturing potential of 40,000 military aircraft annually, a figure reached in 1944.

Russia at this moment has 14,000 military craft in daily operation, manned by trained and expert pilots, serviced by expert ground crews, in all categories from fighters to long range bombers.

Russia obtained two U. S. B-29 bombers in 1944 and by 1946 was able to fly three planes of this type, of their our production, over Moscow.

100 JET PLANES

Russia flew 100 jet planes over Moscow on May Day of this year. In order to have 100 planes in the air at one time over Moscow, Russia must have between 300 and 500 jet planes in her air armada.

Last year Russia's air force superiority over the U. S. based on military aircraft in actual operation—was 98 per cent. That superiority has increased to 134 per cent as of today.

Russia's ground force capabilities permit her to overrun western Europe at will, and overrun the Near East as far as Suez with no resistance other than that

Polar Attack Threat Called Peril to Hub

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—The Hearst newspapers learned today that in the hands of the Brewster subcommittee of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee and the Air Policy Board is sworn testimony of competent Army officers which shows:

The industrial heart of America—Detroit, Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, Chicago—can be transformed from key production centers to rubble by long range enemy bombardment planes operating over the polar cap.

The vast harbor facilities of Seattle, Los Angeles and San Francisco—Pacific transportation outlets for America—can be made as useless as the harbors of France on Invasion Day, by an enemy who need never have a base on the North American continent.

Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore—the Atlantic seaboard shipping hubs—are as vulnerable to attack and demolition as the Pacific Coast harbors or the production centers of the Middle West.

Detailed testimony is still held in confidential files, but these facts were made available:

NEW BOMBS

Russian aviation development has progressed to the research and rejection stage where Russia is now prepared to manufacture long range bombers capable of reaching American industrial centers over the Polar ice.

Russian development of "new type bombs" in the scientific laboratories located east of the Urals is "within two to five

Testify During Hollywood "Reds" Hearing in Washington

BACK FROM PROBE—Marsha Hunt, back in Hollywood from the sessions in Washington of the Communist-probing House committee, told newsmen "we were sticking our chins out, but I am certain each one of us is deeply glad we went." She was among 22 film figures returning to Hollywood today.

Proof Linking Filmland to Spies Pledged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The promised disclosures of a definite link between movieland and Russian atom bomb spying must await the next phase of the Reds-in-Hollywood investigation.

This will come in "due time," Chairman Thomas (R.) of New Jersey pledged today as his House committee on un-American activities ended two weeks of public hearings.

The movie industry claimed meanwhile that the "abrupt termination" of the current inquiry "is a complete vindication of our position."

Paul V. McNutt, special counsel for the motion picture association, declared in a statement the investigators had produced no proof of charges that films contain subversive propaganda.

Thomas told reporters the committee will go into this aspect of things when it resumes its hearings either here or in Los Angeles. The time has not been fixed.

Letdown In Morals Scored

Blaming scanty beach attire and the conduct of "girls who allow themselves to be pushed around in taverns, taps and hotels," for increasing sex offenses, Joseph J. O'Brien, chief probation officer of Middlesex Superior Court warned a special legislative commission today that "you can't legislate morals."

O'Brien, speaking at a State House hearing, told the commission that too often the community contributes to sex crimes and added that morals are a matter of education which should begin in the home. He told the legislative group probing prevalence of sex crimes:

"There is a general letdown of morals today. There is a lack of respect for authority. Is it possible that there could be a school strike without parents condoning it?

"In summer at the beaches and away from the beaches, there is a condition of dress or undress, particularly in girls and women, but also in men, that contributes to sex offenses.

"These girls and women now want to wear their beach attire in the business sections of towns, but town officials are passing ordinances to confine them to the beaches. Men and boys whistle, insult and sometimes attack girls and women—maybe not the same persons exposing themselves, but someone else later in the day or evening.

"Men and boys tell us these things. They tell us about seeing girls and women with scanty attire and later of attacking someone else.

"Visit the taverns or taps or the hotels. Go to the lounges—another name for barrooms—and observe the women and girls who allow themselves to be pushed around. Finally something happens, as happened in Malden recently.

"We have met and talked with girls of 13 and 14 years of age who have had more knowledge of sex than persons much older. The serious sex offender shouldn't be at large at any time."

40-Foot Waves Lash At Winthrop, Revere

Waves and spray 35 and 40 feet high hammered the beachfronts of Winthrop and Revere today as high winds combined with a 12-foot tide a few minutes before noon caused streets to be inundated, tore loose moored small craft and blocked traffic.

The tide, which normally would not have been more than 10 feet eight inches, covered Boston's T Wharf so it was impossible of access from the land side.

Mayor Raymond E. Carey of Revere ordered city employes to work with State Public Works employes in piling sandbags at Broad Sound st. and Winthrop pkwy., where the area was choked with water and debris.

Several motorists who tried to drive through the stretch before a detour was set up became marooned when the water knocked out ignition systems. They were towed out.

The seas surged over Winthrop Shore dr. and flowed a block in to Shirley st., which was from eight to 10 inches under water.

The spray at Rogan's pt., Revere, went over housetops.

A number of small boats were torn from moorings at the Savin Hill Yacht Club.

Some cellars were flooded in the Tenean section of the Dorchester shorefront.

The Coast Guard cutter Hornbeam left Woods Hole early this afternoon to assist the disabled New Bedford dragger Viking, which asked for help 140 miles off Chatham, reporting engine failure.

The cutter Legare developed engine trouble 50 miles out of New Bedford when it was originally assigned to the task. It was ordered back as the Hornbeam took over.

In New York, La Guardia Field authorities called a state of emergency as wind-swept waters from Flushing bay flooded part of the field and forced suspension of operations on three of the four runways.

The New York-Connecticut shoreline bordering Long Island sound experienced tides of the greatest height since the 1938 hurricane.

Merchants at Greenwich, Ct., and Port Chester, N. Y., had to remove merchandise from waterfront stores.

4 Masked Gunmen Get $29,000 So. Boston Pay

Boston was shocked today by its second payroll holdup in as many days—a $29,000 grab at the American Sugar Refinery's South Boston plant—as police obtained a warrant in West Roxbury court charging a paroled convict with armed robbery in yesterday's $110,000 theft at Hyde Park's Sturtevant Blower plant. Named in the warrant was Patrick J. Farina, 34, Freeport st., Dorchester, released on parole last March after serving nearly 2 years of a 2½-to-3-year term for the $6800 S. S. Pierce Co. payroll holdup in September, 1944.

Today's brazen theft, bearing the hallmark of the same gang which looted the Sturtevant plant yesterday, was a daring, psychological stroke which took advantage of police belief the gunmen would not attempt a second theft in only 24 hours.

The same systematic precision and evidence of careful planning, plus indication that the payoff method and location of the money had been "fingered" to the gang, marked their second successful strike in as many days.

In today's holdup the gunmen were again garbed in working clothing, three of them were masked in welders' hoods and the fourth by a handkerchief and one carried a sawed-off shotgun. Once again they made their strike within minutes after the payroll money had been delivered by armored truck at the plant. And, once again, they made their escape in a new black Buick sedan.

Police, still smarting at the gang's successful getaway with more than $110,000 in Hyde Park yesterday, planned complete protection for all future payrolls and joined with insurance companies in preparing a master plan to prevent future thefts.

ARRESTS EXPECTED SOON

Indication that investigators might be approaching a solution to the identity of the smoothly-operating gang was seen in the obtaining of the warrant against Farina and four similar warrants naming John Doe and Richard Roe.

Officials said they believed they knew the identity of one other member of the gang and hoped to arrest him in a matter of hours.

In addition, they said, a rogues' gallery photograph had been picked out by a Hyde Park holdup witness, who said it "looked like" the driver of the getaway car.

The Sturtevant plant loot was announced yesterday as nearly $108,000 but this figure was revised today when the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. paid the Westinghouse Corp., which operates the plant, a total of $110,249.13 for the loss.

Farina, whose parole expires Dec. 17, was sentenced to State prison in May, 1945, after turning State's evidence against two companions in the S. S. Pierce holdup.

Michael J. "Spike" Hennessey and Robert L. "Bobby" Wallace, now are serving 8 to 10-year terms for the holdup.

They are serving concurrent terms for assault with intent to murder Farina, who was shot in Weymouth in a quarrel over the division of the loot.

The speed and precision of today's holdup allowed the gunmen to escape again although the quick thinking of Barbara Green, the plant telephone operator, enabled police to learn of the robbery while the thieves still were in the paymaster's cage of the Granite st. plant.

But the thieves worked with such speed that they had escaped eastward on Granite st., turned into A st. and had disappeared in the few minutes it required police cruisers to reach the scene.

As the holdup men burst into the main entrance of the plant office they met and overpowered

Housing Head Quits For Atomic Work

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Frank R. Creedon resigned today as national housing expeditor.

In a letter of resignation, Creedon advised President Truman he was leaving the government to take charge of a large construction program in connection with development of atomic energy. No details were given.

While the letter did not disclose the name of the firm which is undertaking the atomic project, associates of Creedon said they understood it is the General Electric Corp.

Every Little Breeze Makes Pepper Sneeze

Except for the white horse, Pepper Donna is beginning to feel like Lady Godiva and the 19-year-old former Boston girl wants the Chicago courts to get her clothes back, but quick.

Pepper, who was Miss Miami Beach of 1947 and before that was Janet Shore of Winthrop and the West End, is working as a model in Chicago. Her counsel, Francis C. Borelli, says she is wardrobeless.

Claire Borin, 37, wife of Nathan Borin, wealthy art goods dealer, charges she found Pepper's clothes in her husband's apartment when she returned unexpectedly from California. Miss Shore says the clothes are worth $5000 and has filed a petition for their return.

Borelli said Mrs. Borin made and then refused to sign an agreement for return of Pepper's belongings. The wife, who has sued her husband unsuccessfully for divorce, wants a jury trial of the clothing case, and the courts have set it down for a hearing Nov. 12.

But Pepper asked for an earlier trial date today. She pointed out the winds are breezy off Lake Michigan and that Nov. 12 is 13 long, cold days away. She wants to write finis to the story now.

'Forever Amber' Sunday Showing Barred in State

"Forever Amber" cannot be shown in Massachusetts next Sunday, John F. Stokes, commissioner of public safety ruled today. Stokes announced that his ruling would hold until after the film has been reviewed by "a representative group of churchmen of all denominations" some time next week.

The commissioner instructed George C. Parsons, chief of inspections for his department, to notify all motion picture theaters that approval for this Sunday's showing of the movie of the much loved court woman of 17th century England has been withdrawn.

The Sunday ban was the latest move in a controversy over the film marked by protests against its showing by Archbishop Cushing and the Boston City Council. Weekday showings of the movie in Boston won qualified approval of the city censorship board after two scenes were deleted.

During a 75-minute conference that followed a special showing of the film, the censorship board of Mayor Hynes, Police Comr. Sullivan and Chairman Robert P. Bellows of the Boston Art Commission ruled that the picture was a sufficiently toned down version of the spicy novel to pass muster.

But they conceded:

"The theme of the picture is open to objection as is the philosophy of the picture, and the board recogizes that religious groups are justified in objecting to the picture on such grounds."

The cuts ordered by the Boston and the State censors are for different scenes in the production, which lasts two hours, 25 minutes.

The Boston censors said they cut one scene because it was "unnecessary" and eliminated the second "to impart a moral lesson at the end of the picture, if there is a moral lesson in the picture at all."

In assailing the film, Abp. Cushing followed the lead of Cardinal Spellman in New York. The Boston prelate warned all Catholics in the Archdiocese they may not view the picture "without grave scandal." His admonition will be read at all masses Sunday.

The Archbishop described it as "an immoral film" and pointed out that it has been condemned by the National Legion of Decency as "unfit for attendance by our people."

Editorially The Pilot said:

"The much-discussed film is debased entertainment. The novel on which the picture was based was pre-eminent for two qualities—a ditch-water dullness and a ditch-water filthiness. The Hollywood people knew this.

"They must have recalled the aphorism that you can't convert a sow's ear into a silk purse. Yet defiantly they squandered a small fortune into the attempt to convert a dirty book into an acceptable film."

Ex-Official Of Newton Gets 9 Months

A long drawn-out investigation of graft charges in the Newton street department ended in Middlesex Superior Court today when a former street commissioner and a contractor pleaded guilty to charges of larceny and conspiracy.

John D. Haughey, 60, the ex-street department head who was convicted last June on two counts of larceny, pleaded guilty today to six counts of conspiracy. He was sentenced to nine months in the House of Correction by Judge John V. Sullivan on one count of larceny. The other charges against him were placed on file.

John J. O'Donnell, 40, Newton contractor, pleaded guilty to larceny and conspiracy and was given a suspended sentence of three years in the house of correction on condition he make restitution of $4000 to the city of Newton.

Hubert Towey, 48, Fessenden st., Newton, manager of a highway equipment firm, who was charged with larceny, stood on his plea of innocence and on recommendation of Asst. Dist. Atty. Ephraim Martin in a bench conference Judge Sullivan ordered his case filed and Towey discharged.

John L. Foley, 50, Parmenter rd., Newton, a former street department foreman, who had pleaded not guilty to 19 counts of larceny, failed to answer when his name was called and was ordered defaulted. A capias was issued for his arrest.

Lake Finds U. S. Border Guards Cool as Result of Spy Activity

By AUSTEN LAKE
Boston American Staff Correspondent

WEIDEN, Germany (with the U. S. Constabulary)—I reached the easterly frontier of democracy in late afternoon sunlight—a pastoral land where a dusty road bridged a narrow stream that separates U. S.-indulged Germany from Russia-dominated Czechoslovakia. The silent scene was a breathless vacuum where sweet meadows met dark pine forests. It was a spot for poesy instead of the boundary which separates liberal from controlled thought. The 100 yards between the red-and-white striped gates where Americans in mustard stood guard on one side, and green-capped, Soviet-trained Czechs glowered grimly on the other, were more than a geographical dividing line. They are the end and beginning of opposite worlds—ideologies which men call "spheres of influence." I did not try to cross—not today.

Oddly, for the first time, I met a cold reception from our Constabulary sentries, a reticence which I have not encountered before in my rounds. The men answered with monosyllabic, "Yes," and "No." Clearly they were not "giving out."

Such questions as, "How do you get along with your neighbors?" begot answers, "O 'bout the same's last year."

The troopers' frigid politeness had me puzzled. So I snapped my notebook shut, and after a brief look at the sylvan scenery, told Capt. Ralph Miller of Wichita, Kan., the squadron intelligence officer, "Let's go." We rode some miles in silence.

"I imagine," said Miller, with a trace of apology, "you noticed how untalkative the men were," and I said irritably. "Yes, I did." "Well," he said, "there's a reason. They're very 'security conscious'." That was an old, familiar phrase from wartime censorship.

"The other night," continued Miller, "I had a telephone call from Frankfurt. The voice on the other end said: 'This is the Associated Press. We'd like you to answer some questions'. It didn't make sense. I knew that news agencies don't call long distance to frontier military posts. They send accredited reporters. So I said, 'Okay, what questions?' The voice asked, 'What is your strength up there?' I said, 'Go ahead. What else?' The voice asked, 'Well, we'd like to know what sort of weapons you use'."

It was the gloaming period when the countryside lay in half light, and when the tiny German deer called roebuck come out from the forest to nibble the meadow grass. They are plentiful here, and Capt. Miller had brought his Mauser hunting rifle and some steel pointed cartridges in the hope of potting one of the timid beasts. He scanned the countryside as he talked.

"Naturally I hung up and tried to trace the call. The Frankfurt AP office said no, they hadn't telephoned. That wasn't all. A day later one of our foot patrol sergeants was stopped in town by a civilian who begged a light for his cigar and started a casual conversation which veered toward Constabulary border business. The questions were tactfully framed, but simmered down to, 'How many men?' and 'What kind of weapons?' and 'How much of the border do you police between check points?' etc."

The captain laid his hand on

New York Digs Deep Into Its Luxury Relief

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Welfare Commissioner Benjamin Fielding said today he was making "the most thorough scrutiny of the attitude and orders" of workers connected with the case of a $100 a week auto salesman whose family received relief.

Fielding also made public two sworn statements conflicting with testimony heard Wednesday before State Department of social welfare investigators in their inquiry into New York's relief program.

Testimony at Wednesday's hearing stated that after the salesman had disappeared to escape a jail sentence for having issued fraudulent checks totaling $14,000, his wife and three children lived on relief in a hotel and that a physician called to attend one of the children found racing forms in her room and noticed "she received many telephone calls."

The physician swore in a statement made public today that he never had visited the woman in the hotel. In another statement the department worker assigned to "the automobile salesman case" also swore the physician never had visited the hotel nor observed what it was testified he saw.

Bernard Shapiro, state supervisor of social work, testified during two days of hearings thousands of dollars had been paid out in welfare funds to families whose eligibility for relief was questionable.

The three-man inquiry committee heard one alleged case of a Mr. X and a woman, not his legal wife, who received $938.55 in relief between Feb. 20 and May 26 of this year, and of a woman who had a mink coat.

In the former case, it was testified that while the man, who was employable, was on the relief rolls, his legal wife and three children also were receiving welfare aid.

Mee's Rages Told At Satira's Trial by Yacht's Co-Owner

HAVANA, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Audiencia Court heard testimony by Charles Jackson and two Cuban police officials today in the Patricia Schmidt murder trial and then recessed the case again until Monday.

Jackson, who was on the yacht Satira when John Lester Mee was fatally shot after a quarrel with Patricia last April, testified that "Jack did act peculiar at times."

A harbor police corporal, Jose Rodriguez, told the court he boarded the yacht three hours after the shooting and found the cabin upset "like a fight had occurred." He said he found the pistol with which Mee was shot lying under bedclothing which had been tossed on the floor.

SATIRA NERVOUS

Jackson, of River Forest, Ill., told the court:

"Jack Mee and I got along very well. Jack often had a short temper and usually lost track of a conversation. There were other things."

Patricia, who called herself Satira as a dancer in Caribbean night clubs, sat nervously on the defense bench handling a Spanish fan. The Toledo, Ohio, girl previously had testified in her twice-delayed trial that she shot Mee, a Chicago lawyer, accidentally while she was afraid he would kill her.

Jackson, a friend of both, has been accused of concealing facts.

At the outset, he said that a declaration he had made after the shooting last April was given to Gustavo Reno after that attorney had represented himself as an official of the court. Actually, Reno is a private prosecutor, retained by Mee's father, Dr. Lester E. Mee of Wilmette, Ill.

BOTH SERVED IN PACIFIC

Indications were that the verdict might be reached next week. The prosecution has demanded 30 years' imprisonment for the girl and the private prosecutor has asked that Jackson be jailed for three years.

Both Jackson and Mee were motor torpedo boat commanders in the Pacific during the war.

"Jack Mee told me he had suffered battle fatigue," Jackson testified.

Recalling the cruise of the yacht Satira down the Mississippi to Havana, which started with eight men, Jackson said:

"It was to be an all-man cruise. It was understood no women would be aboard the boat. I didn't like it when Patricia moved aboard in Havana.

"Not that she was a bad girl, but I just did not want women on the boat. When she came on board, that was the reason some of the others on the boat left and went back to Chicago."

TELLS OF QUARRELS

He said he had a part interest in the yacht, which he tried to sell.

Jackson's lawyer, Israel Soto Barroso, asked Jackson how Mee and Patricia got along aboard the Satira. He replied:

"The first two weeks, they got along fine but then tension began to develop. Jack Mee told me he was having trouble with Patricia because she had found out he still was married. I heard arguments between them, but these were not explained to me.

"I noticed that Patricia was very careful not to anger Jack and to do what he said."

Jackson said it was his pistol with which Mee was shot, explaining:

"The main reason for having it was as some sort of protection."

Proxy Bride Deported by Air to Britain

Immigration employes placed her aboard a plane while her husband, Barney Hagen, tried frantically to wave good-by. Authorities found her visa had expired before she flew here Oct. 21 to meet her husband.

An official said the action against the 21-year-old English beauty was "without prejudice to her right to reapply for admission to the United States within one year if, upon her return, she is in possession of the required documents."

Report Card System Changes Urged on Bay State Teachers

Abandonment of the present report card system in our schools was advocated today by Dr. Alonzo G. Grace, commissioner of education at Hartford, Ct., in an address to 5000 teachers attending the 93d annual convention of the Middlesex County Teachers' Ass'n.

The present system of rating a child is not based on what he does in comparison with what he is able to do, but what he does in comparison with what 40 other children do, Dr. Grace explained.

Speaking first to 2000 members of the association at Symphony Hall and later to 3000 meeting at the Opera House, the Connecticut educator charged that boys and girls now leave high school without knowing how to work.

"Any nation which permits its youth to reach the age of 18 without knowing the meaning of work, is setting the date for its own decline," Dr. Grace said.

He urged establishment of a system whereby high school education could be combined with a part-time working schedule.

He also charged that the youth of this country is being permitted to emerge from high school with no fundamental concept of our government, economic system or international relations.

Archbishop Richard J. Cushing in his address to the convention called for a greater emphasis on moral codes in education.

Speaking of the separation of church and State in this country, his excellency declared that such a separation within the individual is impossible. The moral man, as subject of the church, and the citizen, as subject of the State, must co-ordinate the teaching of both.

State Registrar of Motor Vehicles Rudolph F. King gave figures to prove that the present highway safety campaign in the schools has been instrumental in cutting down motor vehicle accidents among children.

He pointed out that of the 66 children killed this year up to Oct. 23, 44 were of preschool age.

King urged intensification of the safety program and advocated establishment of more driving classes in high schools.

TAX MEN PROTECT POOR WORKING GIRL

HARTFORD, Ct., Oct. 31 (AP) — The United States stands to lose some Social Security tax income because it won't tell an unidentified young Hartford man how much his girl friend is earning.

Manager Francis Donohue told today how the youth breezed into the office, gave his girl friend's name and announced he'd like to know her salary "to be sure she is earning enough to get married on."

When Donohue recovered sufficiently to tell him such matters were confidential, the man, insisting it was his right as an American citizen to receive the information, tore up his Social Security card, flung the pieces about the office and stalked out, vowing profanely that never again would he pay taxes to the Social Security Administration.

"Otherwise," Donohue commented, "the young man appeared sane.

"Who knows, he may cool off and marry the gal."

Last Honors Paid War Hero In Hyde Park

Silent crowds lined Hyde Park streets, today, as a horse-drawn caisson bearing the body of Cpl. Wesley G. Ross of Blake st. moved slowly from the funeral home to the First Congregational Church, where funeral services were held.

School children were given a half-holiday and stores and shops of the district were closed from 12 to 2 p. m. in tribute to the dead soldier whose body was brought to this country with the first of the hero dead to be returned from the Pacific aboard the transport Honda Knot.

The body was carried on the same caisson that bore the body of Franklin D. Roosevelt to its grave at Hyde Park, N. Y., in April, 1945.

At the church, on Central ave., funeral services were read by Dr. George W. Owen, pastor.

Ross was killed at Pearl Harbor in 1042. When his body arrived at San Francisco, Oct. 10 aboard the Honda Knot, his mother, Mrs. Charles Ross was at the dockside to meet it.

Mrs. Ross, who made the trip to the West Coast with a Record-American reporter, as a representative Gold Star mother attended memorial services held at San Francisco and returned to Boston aboard the train that bore the body of her son.

Burial was at Mount Hope Cemetery where final military honors were accorded the flag-draped casket.

Princess Selects Blue-Tint Lipstick for Bridal Makeup

LONDON, Oct. 31 (INS)—Princess Elizabeth has decided to use a lip rouge with a faint blue tint at her wedding Nov. 20 to match her smoky-gray going-away outfit.

Details of her wedding makeup were revealed today. Here they are:

To withstand the long, exhausting ceremony in an over-heated atmosphere, the Princess has chosen a peach-tinted, non-drying liquid foundation for her face. Over this will be applied peach-tinted powder.

Her cheek-coloring will be emphasized and her eyes will be mascaraed lightly to withstand the glare of the Abbey's artificial lighting.

The Princess, incidentally, is giving in to the longer hemline.

Despite appeals to British women by government spokesmen to adhere to knee-length dresses to save material, the Princess' clothes are gradually getting longer.

Her latest ensemble is a new pale green coat with contrasting frock underneath only 15 inches from the ground. This compares with the 17-inch hemline she preferred in September and the 16-inch hemline earlier this month.

TOOT LOOT

LONDON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Thieves broke into a country house owned by the Duchess of Kent and were frightened off last night by a servant. Their only loot: A police whistle.

Orderly Program Set for Hub's Halloween

Witches polished up their brooms for a sunset takeoff, pumpkins glowed merrily through carved faces, and 100,000 Greater Boston youngsters eagerly awaited darkness for tonight's annual visit of the hobgoblins and spooks of Halloween.

Under the full Hunter's Moon, all the traditional mummery of children peering through false faces, parading in ghostly groups clutching the family sheets, and wearing the traditional paper costumes of black and orange was due to be enacted.

This year's celebration will see bigger and more parties staged in nearly every community in Greater Boston in an effort to keep children from roaming the streets and causing injury to themselves and damage to property.

PARTIES PLANNED

Parties arranged by civic heads, veterans' organizations and private societies will be augmented by house parties in every neighborhood. All the familiar games from ducking for apples to pinning the tail on the donkey are awaiting the youngsters.

Boston alone has arranged 138 parties in school buildings, gymnasiums and public halls in all parts of the city for an estimated 60,000 children of grammar and high school age.

Melrose is trying out a new stunt in arranging a parade down Main st. starting at 7 p. m. Prizes will be awarded for the prettiest, funniest and best costumes, and all the children will be invited after the parade to a party at Memorial Hall. Those in their 'teens will hold a dance behind the fire station.

SEVEN DON'TS

For the guidance of those in doubt, Boston police came up with a list of seven things not to be done under penalty of a trip to the station house.

They are: Don't damage street lights; don't deface billboards, fences or property; don't throw things at moving vehicles; don't light bonfires; don't pull a false alarm; don't deface or damage voting booths; don't aim bean blowers at people.

To prevent false alarms, American Legion members in Quincy will guard that city's boxes from dusk to midnight. Providence firemen have a different solution—they have coated the box handles with a chemical which makes the offenders' hands glow for hours after touching the box, thus insuring prompt attention from the police.

Fairly heavy rains in most parts of New England during the past two days removed much of the danger of fires.

OLIVE CROP DAMAGED

ROME, Oct. 31 (AP)—Heavy rains which flooded low country areas in Southern Italy have seriously damaged the Gallipoli region's olive crop and destroyed the entire crop of sweet potatoes.

Wallace Sees Pope, Pleads for Jews

ROME, Oct. 31 (AP)—Former Vice President Wallace saw Pope Pius XII today and urged him, a member of Wallace's party said after the audience, to use his influence toward a solution of the Palestine problem.

The disclosure came from Lewis Frank, a correspondent of the magazine New Republic of which Wallace is editor, who accompanied Wallace and Michael Straight, New Republic publisher, to Castel Gandolfo to see the Pontiff.

The audience was arranged by the office of President Truman's representative to the Vatican.

It was Wallace's first call in Italy, where he arrived yesterday "as a newspaperman" after a 12-day visit to Palestine. Later today he is scheduled to see moderate Socialist Leader Giuseppe Saragat and Premier Alcide de Gasperi.

Frank said there still was no reply to Wallace's request for an interview with Communist Leader Palmiro Togliatti, but that Wallace would see Pietro Nenni, head of the pro-Communist Socialist party, tomorrow.

Communist and Socialist newspapers in Rome today gave Wallace the warmest welcome received by an American notable in their pages for many months.

Six Families Await Return Of Hero Dead

Relatives today awaited arrival of the bodies of six more Massachusetts naval heroes, among 78 war dead arriving in New York from Ft. Bell Cemetery in Bermuda aboard the U. S. Army transport Stevens Victory.

The dead were SF 2c James T. King, brother of Laura King, Dudley st., Roxbury; WT 1c Harrison C. Richardson, son of Mrs. Alice L. Richardson, Walnut st., Leominster; CWTPA Joseph C. Senay, son of Mrs. Adeline Senay, Lonsdale st., Fall River; S 2c Robert F. Doherty, whose next of kin is William M. Doherty, Belmont st., Woburn; CBM Daniel J. Gorham, whose next of kin is John P. Gorham, Batchelder ter., Roxbury, and SM 1c Leonard W. Roberts, whose next of kin is Frederick H. Roberts, Huron st., Salem.

King, a graduate of Roxbury Trade School, enlisted in the Navy the day after his 17th birthday, in January, 1942. His death was announced in November, 1943.

Speed Bar Harbor Re-Building Plans

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31 (AP)—Harland Bartholomew, St. Louis city planning engineer and consultant, announced today he has accepted a commission to plan the rebuilding of the summer resort town of Bar Harbor, Me., two-thirds of which was destroyed by fire last week.

Bartholomew said he was engaged by a committee of residents headed by Sheldon Goldthwaite, president of the Bar Harbor Banking and Trust Company. Bartholomew and two members of the staff of his firm, Harland Bartholomew and associates, will leave for Bar Harbor Sunday.

Deaths Paralyze Oregon State Offices

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 31 (AP)—A stunned Oregon prepared today for a funeral in state for its Governor and two other top officials killed in a hunting trip plane crash.

Services were planned for all three in the chamber of the State House of Representatives here Monday at 1:30 p. m.

The bodies of Gov. Earl Snell, State Sec. Robert S. Farrell, Jr., and State Senate President Marshall Cornett were to be brought here from the mountainous southern Oregon wilderness where their plane crashed Tuesday night. The crash also killed the pilot, Cliff Hogue.

The new governor, John Hubert Hall, 48, Portland attorney, elevated from Speaker of the House of Representatives, took over, but many of the State's offices were paralyzed by the triple death.

It was impossible to obtain drivers' licenses, automobile licenses or numerous other certificates. These functions, carried on under the Secretary's of State's supervision, will not be resumed until new Gov. Hall names a successor to Farrell, probably next week.

There was confusion also over the operation of the Liquor Control Commission, the Highway, Welfare and Unemployment Commissions, but they took up business on the recommendation of the state attorney-general's office.

The crash left on the State Board of Control which does the State's buying, keeps many of the State's records and administers most of its institutions—only State Treasurer Leslie M. Scott.

The board can resume operation after Hall appoints a new secretary of state and both he and Hall are in Salem.

At present, Gov. Hall is ill in Portland with influenza. He arose from bed yesterday for a hurried trip here to take the oath of office, then returned home.

Dean Opposes Hub Bar Ass'n On Split Tax

Appearing before a special commission at the State House in favor of a community property law in Massachusetts, Dean Erwin N. Griswold of Harvard Law School declared opposition by the Boston Bar Ass'n was based on fear of a change rather than any real difficulties such a law might raise

"Lawyers are often frightened by new things," Dean Griswold said. "Most of the questions raised in opposition to the proposed law could be taken care of by writing a line or two into the law."

Griswold, who is a member of both the Ohio and Massachusetts bars, said he has lived in community property states and he disagreed with the contention of Jacob J. Kaplan, president of the Bar Ass'n, that the law would cause disruption here.

RAPS COMMON LAW

"Mention was made at the hearing of the hallowed common law which prevails in Massachusetts," Griswold said.

"Massachusetts' common law until relatively few years ago was positively brutal toward women. The common law held the concept that a married couple were one, and that one was the husband."

Dean Griswold said he favored a community property law for Massachusetts only after the most careful study, and then only on the condition that Congress does not pass a split tax law.

IN BAD SPOT

"If Congress does not pass a split tax law," he said, "New York is sure to pass a community property law. When New York does, New Jersey and Connecticut are sure to follow. This would place Massachusetts in a bad spot."

Proponents claim the law would save an estimated $80,000,000 a year for Massachusetts taxpayers.

"Even if the law would not benefit every taxpayer in the state, persons with large incomes would still be obliged to pay federal taxes greater than those paid in other states. Does not the minority have any rights?" he inquired.

While proponents of the law agree there might have to be some changes made in existing property laws, there was a bulk of opinion which held that the changes would be minor, and would in no way cause the disruption predicted by the Bar Ass'n.

CHRISTMAS CARDS JURY

OMAHA, Oct. 31 (AP)—It was the first request for a jury trial which Douglas County Judge Robert R. Troyer had received in a long time. He had only a few minutes to submit a list of prospective jurors.

His honor pondered. Then he reached for a drawer. Out came his Christmas card list.

"This should be fairly representative," he said, chuckling.

Opposing attorneys were agreeable.

Fund Workers To Knock on Your Door

In a determined effort to reach 55 per cent of the total goal by Monday, more than 30,000 volunteer Community Fund campaign workers will spend the week-end visiting prospective contributors.

A call for this intensified drive was issued today by Chairman Philip H. Theobold. In a message to workers, he said:

"We need at least a 25 per cent increase in average giving. Ask for increases—remember that you are salesmen for the most priceless product in the world—human happiness."

The campaign leader's message followed announcement at the first report luncheon that 39.3 per cent subscriptions totaling $2,594,746 — has already been raised in the drive toward the goal of $6,600,000.

Boy, 4, Dies, Three Hurt in Crash

Charles Hanson, 4, of Washington st., Whitman, was fatally injured and his brother Paul, 2, and mother, Mrs. Edna P. Hanson, 29, were injured when their car was in collision with another on the rain-swept pavement at Middle and Washington sts., Weymouth.

80-47 WEDDING

Two Salvation Army members, Col. Joseph Atkinson, 80, Upland rd., Brookline, and Miss Emily Mae Van Tassell, 47, attached to the S. A.'s Evangeline Booth Hospital, today filed marriage intentions at City Hall.

Miss Van Tassell is entering matrimony for the first time but Col. Atkinson, who headed the Army's New England district from 1929 to 1936, was married previously.

House Lots in Arlington Available to Vets at $1

G. Bertram Washburn, chairman of the Veterans' Housing Committee, announced that tax title lots at $1 each for veterans of World War II who wish to build their own homes, are still available from the town of Arlington.

Injured Lineman's Shout Saves Cop

An Edison Co. lineman survived a 40-foot plunge early today in Roxbury when a light pole he was working on cracked at the base in a freak gust of wind, hurling him to the roadway.

Although he lay in agony, suffering from fractured ribs and internal injuries, Arthur Clark, 43, Bussey st., East Dedham, summoned strength to shout warning of the dangerous high tension 4000-volt wires which lay tangled across the roadway to Patrolman Ernest Schroth who went to his assistance.

Clark's warning probably saved Schroth's life.

Clark, who was sent out to repair the line, was taken to Boston City Hospital in a police ambulance where it was stated he would recover.

Abp. Cushing Gives $2500 to Jewish Drive

A gift of $2500 from Abp. Richard J. Cushing was announced today by the Greater Boston Combined Jewish Appeal now conducting a drive to raise $9,100,000. The gift from the head of the Catholic archdiocese was hailed by Israel Friedlander, president of the Appeal, as "an inspiration to the entire Jewish Community."

The drive, still $500,000 short of its goal, ends Sunday.

Hub Teacher Since 1901, 15 Other City Aides Quit

Sixteen city employes went on the retired list today, with the honor of having the longest city service going to Miss Beulah Cone of Saugus, a teacher at the Sherwin School, Roxbury. She entered city service, Sept. 1901.

Included in the group was Prof. Robert Bitzer of Teacher's College.

Navy Man Sees Fiancee Killed by Bus

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Oct. 31 (INS)—A wedding shopping tour ended in death for a 22-year-old bride-to-be when she was sideswiped by a passenger bus and crushed under its rear wheels. Elizabeth Eichner was to have married Navy Qm. 2c James E. Powell of Bridgeport, Nov. 3.

Slav Shooting Of U. S. Troops Unconfirmed

ROME, Oct. 31 (AP)—U. S. Army public relations at Trieste said today there had been no Army confirmation of an assertion by Rep. Bennett (R.) of Missouri that there have been "63 incidents of armed aggression by the Communists" against U. S. forces in Trieste.

The public relations office said it could say nothing, however, about the Congressman's assertion at this time. The public relations office of the Allied military government made a similar reply to inquiries there.

Held for Murder Of Daughter, 15

Fiore D'Antonio, 43, Langley rd., Newton Center, was held without bail for the grand jury after pleading not guilty in Newton District Court today to the murder of his daughter, Nina, 15, and assault with intent to murder her sister, Mary, 17.

Medical Examiner Dr. Thomas M. Gallagher told the court when he was called to the D'Antonio house Oct. 14, he found the slain girl laying in a pool of blood in the kitchen. He tehtified she died as the result of a compound fracture of the skull and two gunshot wounds. Her sister, Mary, was unconscious on the floor.

Lt. Daniel E. Crowley of the Newton police, read a statement allegedly made by D'Antonio in which he stated he had tried to frighten Mary who was planning to marry and leave home. When he entered the girls' bedroom with the shotgun ,the statement quotes D'Antonio as saying, Mary struck him and the gun went off.

See Slight Change In Sugar Cost

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Sugar brokers here see no reason why the expiration of price controls at midnight tonight should cause much change in what a five-pound package will cost the housewife tomorrow.

They differ, however, as to price trends next year.

Some believe a world surplus of sugar is in store in 1948. They cite the expectations of a huge crop in Cuba, the rapid restoration of the war-damaged Philippine sugar industry and the recovery of central European beet sugar areas.

Others think demand also will advance. They believe the Marshall Plan will cause large shipments to Europe, since the calorie value of sugar is high. They say sugar is cheaper in calories than is wheat at present grain prices.

All Saints Day Observance Set for Tomorrow

All Saints Day, solemn holy day in the Christian calendar, will be celebrated tomorrow in Catholic and Protestant churches in the Greater Boston area.

Special masses in churches throughout the archdiocese and in downtown Boston churches will mark the Catholic observance. The Feast of All Souls will be observed in Catholic churches Monday.

Jeepers, Here's A Regular Guy

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (INS)—A young mother and her two children sail for Germany Saturday because a truck driver was "a regular guy."

Mrs. Celeste Kearins, 22, Omaha, Neb., who was en route to join her husband, Lt. Patrick Kearins, in Germany, smashed her jeep into the rear end of a trailer-truck in Plymouth, Ind., Tuesday.

The driver, Edward Kopper, 32, Madison, N. J., learning of Msr. Kearins' mission loaded the disabled jeep and family into his truck.

He made Springfield, N. J., 800 miles, in 30 hours. Kopper dropped the family off at the home of a friend, Robert Briggs, a mechanic, in Springfield.

The family is staying at the Briggs' home while he is making the necessary repairs to the jeep.

Jeep and family are expected to make the scheduled sailing.

GASOLINE COST UP

Wholesale and retail prices of gasoline were advanced today by several New England concerns, while representatives of many other oil companies in the area warned that price rises were in prospect in the near future.

Price of regular gasoline before the present increases at local filling stations was 20.9 cents a gallon. The concerns who increased prices are retailing the regular gasoline for 21.2 cents and high test gas at 23.2.

101st Vets Plan 28th Memorial

The 101st Infantry Veterans Ass'n, AEF, will hold its 28th annual memorial services for departed comrades on Sunday, Nov. 9, at 10 a. m. in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross.

Abp. Cushing will be celebrant of a pontifical high mass, with 12 ex-service chaplains as assistants. Rt. Rev. Osias Boucher, pastor of the Blessed Sacrament Church, Fall River, and permanent chaplain of the association, will occupy a place of honor.

Members will assemble at the 101st Infantry Armory, East Newton st., at 9 a. m., and parade to the Cathedral. Following the mass, a reception and banquet will be tendered Msgr. Boucher at noon in the Armory. Guests at the observance will include national, state and city dignitaries and leaders of the famed division in both World Wars.

Committee for the program is headed by Capt. James J. Feeley, retired, of Medford, general chairman; James J. Powers of South Boston, co-chairman; Anthony Drago of Brookline, treasurer, and Charles F. Barter of Arlington, secretary.

THIRSTY?

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31 (AP) —Like a long drink of lemonade? The War Assets Administration has 7,000,000 gallons—the makings, that is—for sale.

The lemon and dextrose powder base for the drink already has outlasted the war, and the maker, a citrus products company at Anaheim, Cal., says it will keep several years longer.

CHINA ELECTIONS DEFERRED

NANKING, Oct. 31 (AP)—Voting in China's first national elections, scheduled to begin Nov. 21, may not start until around Dec. 1, an official source said today.

General Election Looms in Eire

DUBLIN, Eire, Oct. 31 (AP) —The government party's candidate was defeated today in a vital County Dublin parliamentary by-election and there was immediate speculation whether Premier Eamon De Valera would declare a general election.

De Valera, leader of the Fianna Fail, the government party, had insisted on making the by-election a vote of confidence in his government and had declared that if the government was weakened there would be no option but to call a general election.

Sean MacBride, young Dublin lawyer and leader of the recently formed Republican party, defeated Thomas Mullins, general secretary of the Fianna Fail, 29,629 to 20,197 for the vacant seat in the Dail, the Lower House of Parliament.

Mild October, Mild Winter, Records Show

Unless some aerial madcap with a plane load of dry ice tampers with the local cumulus, this winter promises to be a mild one, a study of the records and statistics at the Boston Weather Bureau indicated today.

Don't be too hasty in scratching snow shovels, overshoes, mittens, etc., from your shopping lists, however, because this momentous prognostication is strictly amateur and based on the discovery that mild winters follow mild Octobers on an average very encouraging to form players and other champions of past performances.

Weatherman William H. Tracy graciously supplied the figures and agreed the October that runs itself into history tonight was the hottest and sunniest on record and even ventured a prediction on tomorrow's weather. Further than that he would not go.

This month averaged 8.3 degrees above normal with a total heat excess of 249 degrees, shattering the 1921 record of 8.1 degrees above the normal average of 53.6.

Five times during the month heat records were broken, the hottest day coming on the 17th when the mercury hit 89. Three other "late season" heat records were broken and one record was equalled. There was no measureable rain until Wednesday and the continuing storm has caused a total precipation of 1.13 inches to date. The coldest day of the month came on Oct. 1, when the thermometer read only 38.

Cross checking the average temperature tables with the snowfall records show that for many ofthe past Octobers where the 53.6 degree normal has been exceeded by two degrees or more, the snowfall for that winter has been light.

For example, October, 1900, averaged 56.6 degrees, the following winter theer was a total snowfall of only 17.5 inches. The average snowfall for Greater Boston is 43 inches. Corresponding high averages for October in 1907, 1908, 1912, 1918, 1920, etc, produced similarly mild winters.

The record shows one glaring exception. The October average for 1915 was 55.7 degrees, 2-1 degrees above normal. That winter 79.2 inches of snow blanketed the city with a 20-inch fall in February and a 33-inch fall in March, so it is easy to understand Weatherman Tracy's position.

There are also a number of years where the temperature average for October has been below normal and the winters turned out extremely mild. You might as well order that furnace coal or oil.

Incidentally, last October there was only .34 inches of rain, but the forests received a good soaking from late September showers that saved them from the disaster that befell them this year.

State Weighs K. C. Insurance Case

Question of whether or not the license of the Knights of Columbus to transact insurance business in Massachusetts should be revoked for failure to comply with a State insurance department rule was taken under advisement, today, by Comr. Charles F. J. Harrington.

In final argument on the case, James E. Curry, counsel for the insurance department, said the State law provided that money collected for mortuary or disability purposes should not be used for expenses. He said the department had been trying since 1932 to have the order conform to this regulation.

Atty. Luke Hart, of St. Louis, general counsel for the society, declared the State law was out of harmony with all others in the nation. He said the department the practice until 1940.

years" of production of a bomb "equal in destructive effect" to the atomic bombs dropped at Hiroshima and Nagasaki which ended World War II.

Russia, due to the freedom with which their "industrial students" have been permitted to roam America at will since V-J day, knows that a line drawn from Boston to Baltimore, to St. Louis to Minneapolis and back to Boston again encloses the area in which America's vital war production centers lie.

KNOW WEAKNESSES

Russia, due to this same lack of security against espionage in the U. S., knows Amercia's deficiency in trained civilian defense manpower, or local defense organization beyond our skeletonized regular Army and 25 per cent organized National Guard.

Russia, through carefully organized esiponage which operated in Canada and the U. S. even in World War II when Russia and this country were co-belligerents against Hitler, knows the location of key production plants which, if destroyed, would bottleneck great segments of war production activities.

One map, showing the azimuthal equidistant projection from Novosibirsk, Russia, to the major American cities in east and west coastal zones and the production centers between Pittsburgh and Chicago, indicates targets with the capabilities of Russian bombardment, according to testimony before the Brewster committee and the air policy board.

DISTANCE LISTED

Specific distances listed in the testimony include:

Leningrad to northern Maine—4000 miles.

Moscow to New York—4300 miles.

Eastern Siberia to Chicago 3400 miles.

Eastern Siberia to Seattle—2000 miles.

And extreme bombardment range is 10,000 miles for planes sent on a one-way mission.

Planes expecting to take off, deliver a bomb load and return to point of flight origin expect to cover three-eighths of maximum range on their way to the target—or between 3750 and 4000 miles.

Grim-faced tacticians admitted to the committee it would be "efficient expenditure of manpower and planes" to send the necessary number to accomplish destruction of key American production centers on one-way missions.

"That sort of war," a confidential witness before the Air Policy Board declared, "sends shivers down my back. It means we must prepare America to mobilize on 10 minutes' notice to cover every square mile of open country, every city block in urban areas—preparation for total war."

5 Billion in War Surplus Recalled

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The armed services have decided to hang on to some $5,000,000,000 worth of goods they once planned to dump into the war surplus market.

This decision to increase military stock levels was disclosed today by War Assets Administrator Robert M. Littlejohn who also reported that some goods already declared surplus have been withdrawn from public offering.

The withdrawals include clothing and other supplies now being used to relieve distress abroad and at home and to carry out this country's $400,000,000 Greek-Turkish aid program.

At the Army Department it was said the decision to keep more materiel does not represent "a new strategic situation" but only a policy change.

a guard, James H. Padden of Columbia rd., Dorchester, forcing him at gunpoint to lead them to the cashier's cage.

They were glimpsed by the operator, screened from view by a partition, as they passed through the corridor and she immediately telephoned police.

"They looked like Ku Klux Klansmen in their masks," she said. "I heard a commotion like people wrestling and I put in a call for the South Boston station. The line was busy but I got an operator to break in on the line. At the same time she connected me with police headquarters and I told them about the holdup.

"The men were still in the cashier's cage when I talked to police. I could hear someone shouting, 'Let it go, let it go.'"

Padden said he realized it was a holdup as soon as the men burst into the building.

"I had just escorted the Brinks' men out a few minutes before they rushed in," he said. "They forced me to take them to the cashier's cage. One of them was in front and at least one more behind me. I stood at the door of the office where the cage is located. Within a few seconds one of them came up to the door with Walter Hand."

Hand, a truck driver, was walking down from the second floor when he was confronted by a masked man with a sawed-off shotgun who herded him along the corridor to the paymaster's office.

"I heard him yell, 'grab the box,' to one of the men in the office," Hand said. "It only seemed like seconds and it was all over."

Some 30 girls were at work in the inner office and Cashier Albert Mamaty and five others were busy inside the cage, whose door was unlocked and open as the gunmen walked in.

Doris Jutras, 18, Harmon st., Mattapan, a comptometer operator, was one of the first to see the gunmen.

"Two men came in," she said. "Their faces were covered. One had a burlap bag with slits for the eyes over his head. The other held a handkerchief to his face. This one had what looked like a small machine gun.

"The other one walked right into Al Mamaty's cage. The man with the handkerchief stood near the door and waved the gun and said, 'We mean business.'"

Mamaty was talking on a telephone as the gunmen entered.

"Drop that phone," one of them yelled.

William R. Greve, Upland rd, Newton Highlands, office manager, said Mamaty apparently did not hear the command and that he shouted to him to hang up the telephone.

SEIZE CASH BOX

Mamaty said the gunman grabbed the phone from his hand and hung up the receiver.

"There was a gun in my face," he said. "He pushed me into a chair and I just sat there. There was nothing I could do. Then the man yelled to one of the others, 'Where's the box?' Another man came in and pointed it out right away. He knew exactly where it was."

The box containing the payroll, delivered only a few minutes before, had not yet been opened by employes in the cashier's cage.

Miss Jutras said that two of the men carried the box out of the office. After they left, she said, she ran to a window and saw them putting the box into the trunk of their car before they climbed in and fled toward the road leading to A st.

The gunmen were seen fleeing from the building with the payroll box by employes in a company garage across the street from the office and by Joseph Doherty, 50, Lindsay st., Dorchester, Boston Consolidated Gas Co. employe who was working on a main nearby.

Doherty sensed something was wrong, noted the license number of the fleeing car and marked it in red chalk on a nearby wall. Police checking the number said it was that of a plate reported stolen earlier in the Back Bay.

ALL WORE MASKS

The first three men wore welder's hoods, they said, while the fourth was masked with a handkerchief.

Descriptions were given of the three hooded men. Two of them were garbed in khaki jackets and trousers and were about 30 to 35, and of stocky build. The third man wore a khaki jacket and blue dungarees. He was about 40, 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighed about 160 pounds, the witnesses said.

As the latest crime occurred, police were engaged in a thorough check of all past and present employes of the Sturtevant plant in an effort to trace a "finger" man who furnished the details which made the well-executed holdup a success.

Fingerprints found in the room where the payroll was being made up were being processed for classification and will be sent to Washington for identification.

Support of the theory that the job was fingered from the inside lay in the fact that Thursday was not always payday at the Hyde Park plant, and that the time for requesting the money from the bank and for filling the pay envelopes after it arrived, also varied from time to time.

Plant officials told police that the decision for the time the bank was to deliver the money was always made two days ahead, to give the bank ample time to clear the payroll and give company employes time to complete the payroll.

128,963 Vets Over 65 Draw Pensions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Veterans Administration said today that of 2,352,514 veterans on its pension rolls, 128,963 are 65 or over.

The "65 or over" group includes all 85 Civil War pensioners, all the 809 veterans of the Indian Wars, an dall but 917 of the 112,846 Spanish-American War veterans.

Also included in this group are 145 veterans of World War II and 13,745 of the 437,155 World War I veterans, all well as 2212 men of the regular armed services establishment.

Annual benefits to the veterans total $131,689,000, including: Civil War, $120,600; Indian War, $700,000; Spanish-American War, $119,084,000; orld War I, $10,391,000; orld ar II, $206,000; and pensioned regulars, $1,187,000.

THEY ALL SAW RED

OAKLAND, Cal., Oct. 31 (AP)—Mrs. Edith K. Hanlon got lost the other night on a dark street.

She saw a fire box and pulled the alarm.

Up roared fire trucks and Battalion Chief Frank Kisport, who had rolled out of a warm bed.

"I'm lost, and I don't know how to get home," said Mrs. Hanlon. "Besides, the street is awfully dark."

A police patrol car took Mrs. Hanlon home.

Escapee Jailed

Awaits Fate—James R. Collins, 38, Pennsylvania well-digger and father of two children, sits in Boylestown jail cell, awaiting Alabama's decision whether he will have to finish life sentence for bank robbery 19 years ago. He escaped in 1936, fled to Pennsylvania, married and lived respectably. Bank president was slain during the holdup.

TAX REDUCTION HAS HIGH PRIORITY

THE REPUBLICAN leadership in Congress is seriously contemplating the re-introduction of tax reduction legislation at the forthcoming special session, and if it does so it will confront the Truman Administration with a twice-laid ghost.

On two occasions during the regular session, both houses of Congress gave approval to measures lifting some four billion dollars annually from the tax-burdened American people and only failed of that purpose because of President Truman's infatuation with his power of veto.

While the President is anxious to restrict the special session to issues of his own choosing, and would probably veto the tax reduction bill a third time if it is presented to him, there is no good reason why the Congress should not be as persistent in its concern for the welfare of the American people as Mr. Truman is against it.

With the single exception of the universal military training program, there will be no other legislative measure before the special session which Congress could pass with more benefit to the American people than the tax reduction bill.

The universal military training bill should certainly be given consideration by the special session ahead of all other matters, for until it is approved we will continue to have an anxious and unstable peace and our hopes of staying out of future war will have little substance.

Let Congress surely give top priority to the universal military training program, and thus give the country its maximum chance for future peace and security—and patriotically, although tardily, alleviate insofar as possible the potential consequences of its own past dereliction.

When this is done, let Congress give the tax reduction program the high priority to which it is entitled by virtue of the basic and desperate public need which it is designed to fill.

THE ISSUE of tax reduction is certainly entitled to a higher priority in Congress than the issues of international politics and intrigue and subsidization which President Truman seems inclined to put ahead of it.

The excessive tax burden of the American people, and the wantonly wasteful federal expenditures which cause it, impairs the ability of the American people to meet foreign relief needs to the extent their natural and generous instincts incline them.

It restricts the useful and fruitful employment of the people. It reduces the productive enterprises of the people.

It diminishes the capacity of the people to provide for their own minimum needs, depletes their resources and deprives them of the standard of living which is their main source of strength in acting as provisioner to a hungry world.

A TAX-OPPRESSED and DEBT-RIDDEN people cannot be expected to carry the relief burden of the rest of the world, and President Truman has twice frustrated the purpose of Congress in putting tax and debt relief for the American people in its proper place as a legislative issue.

The American people can never salvage the remnants of democratic life in Europe by impoverishing themselves—and that is what President Truman's obstruction of the tax and debt reduction measures is accomplishing.

SPARE A CHILD!

MR. AND MRS. MOTORIST, if you can't drive safely tonight, leave the car in the garage and walk.

This is the children's night. They are celebrating Halloween just as you did when you were young. They are careless and reckless, for that is the way of fun.

Don't turn their merrymaking into grim tragedy.

Don't be responsible for putting a little boy or girl dressed as a witch or clown or story-book character in a hospital or cemetery.

Spare a child and make that your Halloween celebration.

A mother's love—how sweet the name!
What is a mother's love?
To bring a helpless babe to light
Then, while it lies forlorn
To gaze upon that dearest sight
And feel herself new born.
In its existence lose her own,
And live and breathe in it alone,
This is a mother's love.
—JAMES MONTGOMERY.

"WE GOT UP AND LEFT. It was just too much for us." That is what some friends of mine said as to the excessive vulgarity of a certain entertainer in one of Manhattan's best-known night clubs. These friends of mine are world-traveled, broad-minded, tolerant and sophisticated in the true sense of the term. But they cannot stomach the gutter type humor of some night club performers.

I can't stand it either. And you certainly can't tie that "blue nose" tag on me. Let me take this occasion to call your attention to the fact that Jimmy Durante, who started at Diamond Tony's in Coney Island and who has appeared in some of the wildest night spots in the country, never gave voice to an off-color gag or joke in his entire career.

This is greatly to Jimmy's credit and also to that of his millions of admirers who have made him one of the most popular and best-loved comedians of all time.

PASSING BY: George Jean Nathan. Perennially debonair drama critic. Still wearing his hat on the side of his head figuratively and actually. George has lived in the same New York apartment forty years. Wonder how much his rent has been raised in that period . . . Sherman Billingsley. Stork Club maestro. Practically everybody knows who Sherman is, but hardly anybody knows much about him. Did you know he once owned a chain of three grocery stores in Detroit? Are you aware that at the age of 23 Mr. Billingsley owned a chain of 20 drug stores in the borough of the Bronx and Westchester? Have you been informed that during his successful career as a real estate man he built the block of apartments in the Bronx still known as Billingsley Terrace? And last, but certainly not least, did you know that the charming Mrs. Billingsley, nee Hazel Donnelly, was once one of Mr. Ziegfeld's glorified girls?

G. J. Nathan

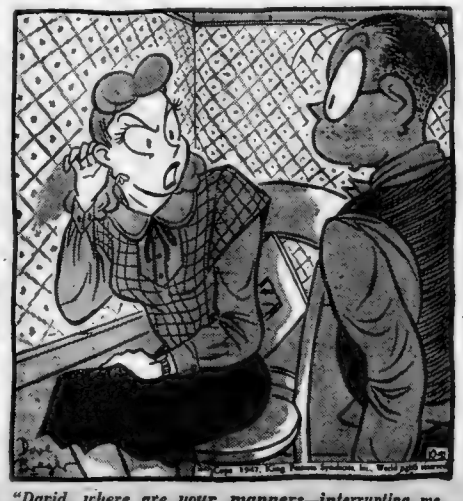
HORSES & WOMEN: As a conscientious student of horses and women I carefully examine all the books and articles on the subject. That reminds me, my racing manual for 1947 has disappeared. I hereby offer five stogies for its return, and no questions asked. As to books and articles on women, I find practically all are apparently planned to be provocative rather than enlightening.

Their aim is to provoke women. There is rarely anything in these books that aids a man trying to understand women. On the other hand, our Horses & Women Department is expressly designed to aid male subscribers in understanding women. We certainly do not wish to provoke our feminine clients. The fact that so many women are anxious to slap my face is merely due to slight misunderstandings. These I am trying to straighten out as I do not want to be compelled to wear a catcher's mask while out strolling.

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—Is it Fannie Brice or Fanny Brice? A—Her name officially was Fannie Borach. She took Fanny Brice as a professional name. She thought the "y" had more class than "ie." Q—Who said: "Mother is the name for God in the lips and hearts of little children?" A—Thackeray in "Vanity Fair." Q—I am always being mistaken for Lynn Bari. What'll I do? A—Is that bad? Why don't you write to Miss Bari and send a snapshot? Maybe you'll get a job as her stand-in.

BIG ARGUMENT: An argument is now developing between two groups of readers which I am certain will take more space than I can devote to it. Bronx papas are arguing with Brooklyn papas as to the achievements of their offspring. They should hire Madison Square Garden for that one. Anyway Brooklynite papa Robert Barbour states: "I see a Bronx father is bragging about his child aged two years and nine months blowing bubbles from bubble gum. My son Leslie is an old-timer at that sort of thing. He started blowing bubble gum bubbles at the age of two years, six months. He is now two years, eight months old."

ASIDES: Note it stated Phil Baker, the reformed accordion player, now a radio celebrity, was born on the East Side of New York city. That's not right. Phil was born in Philadelphia. . . . Edith Piaf, chanteuse from Paris currently appearing in Manhattan, is four feet eight inches tall, being something of a fashion plate.



"David, where are your manners—interrupting me when I'm listening to our next-door neighbors!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright 1947, King Features Syndicate

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—Communists and radical elements certainly are on the run now in Washington. This naturally means that they are losing elsewhere in the country—losing ground in our politics, losing influence and style—because, no doubt about it, during all those years of the reign of Roosevelt and his wife, Eleanor the Great, Washington was their strongest point, next to Moscow.

Westbrook Pegler

To be sure, they made some progress in Latin America, but those places are just Indianapolis to any professional with a feel for publicity.

Washington was the Moscow of the Western world and a little more because the whole world knew that Moscow was a closed shop, whereas in Washington Communism seemed to be making progress on its merits against capitalistic resistance.

NOW AND THEN J. B. Matthews or Robert Stripling, the Hawkshaws of the Dies Committee and its permanent successor, the Thomas Committee on Un-American Activities, would come up with a photograph of the hammer-and-sickle in the hatband of Harry Hopkins or someone else.

But it got so that even when absolute proof was given to our people the devil at their elbow would whisper, "What of it?" And they would repeat, like parrots, "Sure but it's a free country and Herbert Hoover massacred the bonus marchers."

There have been many reasons for the great change. You could just about say that our political chemistry has worked as usual. We got infatuated and excessive, which certainly is our habit. And then we got sick and tired of the radicals and their un-American ways, and we are going to take it out on poor Harry S. Truman, who must carry the target for Roosevelt and all his works in 1948. He has bug-powdered the edifice, but he can't repudiate the one who let them in.

Impalpably, the Communist taint, and it is a curse since Stalin started messing with us, will stick to the Democratic party in 1948, however sincerely Mr. Truman rebukes the Kremlin.

ROOSEVELT'S DEATH was the blow that stopped the advance. It isn't necessary to say that he wasn't a Communist himself. Not even the Communists thought he was. They recognized in him a political slummer and a vain fellow who yearned with an actual anguish and against his raising to be a man of the people.

Biographers will grope and fumble for a better word than supercilious to put the right complexion on him, but they needn't. There it is. Snobbish connotes superiority and aristocratic would be garishly wrong.

LaGUARDIA, LIKE ROOSEVELT, had personal objections to Communism. But he had a sense of inferiority as a "foreigner." Most of our Communists and all of the refugee Communists are foreigners. They exploited this mutuality and he enjoyed it.

Now nobody takes his place.

Henry Wallace may do Truman a favor should he run for President on a third ticket next year.

Mr. Truman's defeat will be less painful when he can tell himself that Wallace took from the lunatic wing of the Democratic party the few votes that he did get.

He knows the change is inevitably due.

THE OLD HOME WEEK of the Thomas Committee was the wholesomest native American volkspiel since the NRA parades. You could tell by the turnout of Hollywood actors that it was now safe to come out of the underground and say out loud: "No, I won't buy a ticket for the old girls' lecture and I won't give a dollar to the Harry Bridges defense fund." Only a few were that brave in 1944. Lionel Barrymore, ZaSu Pitts, Adolphe Menjou, McNutt, McGuinness, McCarey, Moffitt and Disney. But not many more.

THE THOMAS COMMITTEE has developed a shrewdness and expert talent of its own. The Communists and radicals for years had the great advantage of surprise, absolute cynicism and brutality. It takes Americans a long time to understand the enemy's lack of standard American inhibitions.

Robert Stripling, the chief investigator, and Congressman Thomas, the chairman, now know where the records are and where to serve subpoenas. They let the Communists and others tell their lies under oath and then pull out sworn statements made years ago. Convictions for perjury are increasing. Deportations are less difficult.

There have been some changes made around here.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31 (INS) — Madeleine Carroll's first reappearance in America will be with—guess who? Bob Hope, no less! She made "My Favorite Blonde" with Bob some years ago, and he has always said he was going to make another picture with her.

Bob Hope

Well, her first American appearance in years will be with Bob in New York on his show Nov. 11.

We are all pretty proud of my fellow columnist, who will have a dinner given in his honor Sunday night, and well he should. He is always being master of ceremonies at dinners for other people.

Moreover, Bob, who writes for the Hearst newspapers, has just signed a new contract, so I don't know why I should be so nice to him, only that he's promised to cover the wedding festivities in England for me. But more about that later. I can tell you, however, that while in London Bob has a date with J. Arthur Rank to talk about doing a picture.

LILLI PALMER received a transatlantic call from Milton Sperling, pledging her to an exclusive contract. Milton, who is crazy like a fox, put the call through immediately after "Tisa" was reviewed and Lilli and Sam Wanamaker got swell notices.

Also a bit of news dropped to the lady over the telephone is that she plays a French girl in her next movie, "The Long Way Home," just bought for her.

I was amused at a letter from England which stated that the Harrisons haven't been too clubby with Rex' first wife. She arrived in Hollywood last year to visit the Harrisons, and much to Lilli's surprise, said Rex had invited her.

I WAS RIGHT about Gary Cooper going to Warners, just as I was right about Danny Kaye.

Today Jack Warner admitted he had signed Gary for one picture a year, and Coop is delighted because he made "Sergeant York" and "Saratoga Trunk" on the Warner lot and liked working there so much. He will do one picture a year for at least seven years and everybody is happy.

I HAD LUNCH with Ingrid Bergman in her dressing room. She had a day off because Victor Fleming has been very sick and work on "Joan" was suspended.

While I was talking to her, Walter Wanger came in to say the latest news from Vic was very encouraging and that he will probably be back on the set in a few days, but Ingrid missed a whole week of shooting. However, they are not going to try for an Academy award this year. "Joan" won't be released for a whole year, late in 1948, so this delay, beyond the expense, isn't too bad.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: The Duke and Duchess of Montoros, whose wedding cost her papa $370,000, leave New York for Los Angeles next Monday. The pretty little bride was given a dinner by Linda and Cole Porter at the Pavilion.

The duchess' father, the duke of Alba, one of the few grandees left in the world today, is a supporter of Don Juan, pretender to the Spanish throne.

The bride and groom will stay in Los Angeles only five days. Cole Porter has written a lot of his friends to see that the youthful Duke and Duchess are properly shown California before they take off for Mexico.

Here's a voice from yesterday. Molly O'Day telephoned to tell me that her husband, Jack Durant, who went to England on a four-week engagement, was so successful he stayed four months. Jack is also testing for "Speak to Me of Love," the next Greer Garson picture, and his proud wife said, "Isn't it wonderful how well he's doing? He'll be in England for the command performance, too."

Molly, who has a wonderful family, is Sally O'Neil's sister, and the two girls, about 10 years ago, were among the prettiest colleens in town.

Five-months-old Barbara Davis Sherry is pretty young to be flying high—but that's exactly what she was doing when her mother, Bette Davis, and her father, William Grant Sherry, took her airplaning Tuesday.

"Bee Dee," as they call her, had a gurgling good time in the arms of Bette, who was shivering and shaking with fright and nervousness. Even with Sherry at the controls of their new Beachcraft Bonanza, Bette is happier when the family is on terra firma.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Straight from New York comes word that Faye McKenzie and Steve Cochran have reconciled. Irving and Laura La Plante Asher entertained the Countess of Warwick, who left the next day for New York. The Earl of Warwick, under the name of Michael Brook, tried for a screen career 10 years ago. The Countess told me she is meeting him in New York and they are going on to Bermuda.

Alexis Smith, who is getting prettier (she has put on a little weight, and on her it's becoming), was at the Ashers' with her husband. She introduced me to the Robert Douglases, who are recent newcomers. He is now in "Don Juan" and was in "Christopher Blake" with Alexis

There's talk that Alfred Hitchcock may be knighted when the honors are bestowed next time.

Maureen O'Hara has a virus infection and Walter Lang is shooting around her in "Sitting Pretty."

Maureen O'Hara

Eve Arden has written a new book called "A Laugh a Minute." Wonder if she means it?

The blonde cutie with Orson Welles at a Beverly Hills restaurant didn't look as if she appreciated his pearls of wisdom.

Linda Darnell, who dieted herself down to shadow, has now been told to put back five pounds for "The Walls of Jericho."

Gary Cooper is off for a hunting trip following his strenuous session in Washington.

Mary Beth Hughes, who dieted and changed her blonde hair to red, has a job opposite Bill Gargan in "Waterfront at Midnight."

My Boston

By Alan Frazer

STRUCK UP an acquaintance with some of the rodeo men, down at the Garden, and learned that a lucky stiff, as they put it, can make as much as $25,000 to $30,000 in prize money in a year. But the usual income is around $5000 . . . The prize money varies, according to the city. In Boston, total prize money for the 16 performances amounts to $27,000. That's $4500 for each of the six events: bareback riding, saddle bronco-busting, bull-riding, calf-roping, bulldogging and wild-horse racing . . . The competitors, mostly ex-cow-punchers, pay an entry fee of $25 for four of the events, $50 for bulldogging and calf-roping.

SO MANY men are following the show that it takes three entire performances before all can get a crack at the prizes . . . We asked: "How much can a man make here in Boston?" "I can make $1500, but I'll settle for $500," said one chap . . . Out of that there is room and board to pay for. And maybe some donations on the dice table . . . For the most part, they're a mild-mannered, serious crowd of men. But time drags. One fellow was stabbed to death over dice in Chicago, and another is being held there for trial.

THAT RECLUSE who gave $1,000,000 to the Boston Public Library last month, and kept his real home a secret, lives at Beacon Chambers . . . according to reports, George Tourain, who has just retired from the Hotel Touraine organization, came out with $300,000, all profit. It would have been $600,000, but for the $2,000,000 renovations . . . A Boston gambler was cut in for a half-interest in one of the city's most profitable drugstores in payment of a gambling debt . . . Suffolk County judges are aroused over lurid trial reports in a Boston weekly . . . Some authorities say Halloween reveling originated in Druid fire rites, and that the Church selected Nov. 1 for All Saints' Day to offset the pagan festival, which had survived on Oct. 31.

WE HEAR the George Robert White Fund trustees will probably approve a request by the Veterans of Foreign Wars to put up a building with an auditorium in the Fenway, as a memorial to veterans of all wars . . . Suffolk County Council, VFW, took it up with Mayor John B. Hynes and the other trustees at a meeting this week, reviving an idea originally put forward years ago by the 101st Infantry Veteran's Ass'n. The great benefactor's will authorized such use of the fund . . . Sign on a Boston movie theater marquee: "Mother Wore Tights." "Admiral Byrd's Discovery." . . . Michael North, hero of the film "The Unsuspected," says that when he was a student at U. of Kansas, Harry Truman, as a county judge, fined him for a traffic violation. Hum-m-m. Wonder if that's just publicity. Can Mike be that old?

WE WOULD call it stupidity on the part of that Veterans Administration official who said Congresswoman Edith Rogers was "in her dotage." Mrs. Rogers, one of the finest persons in public life, is revered by war veterans for the innumerable battles she has waged in their behalf . . . So it doesn't look as if Gen. Bradley could save him. Especially since he also rapped Congressman John W. McCormack and has incurred the enmity of Sen. Green of Rhode Island, both of whom have easy access to the White House . . . While the rank and file at VA branch headquarters are aroused over that incident, officials there are blandly putting a clerk on trial for going out for coffee during the morning "break," or relaxation period.

AMONG THINGS we never knew until recently: that you can buy corsages of small orchids for as little as 75 cents . . . As we expected, our item stating that Pat Connelly, our postmaster, was the oldest living graduate of St. Mary's School, North End, (so far as anybody knew) turned up an older one. He is James A. Desmond of Perkins Manor, Jamaica Plain, who was graduated in 1885, five years ahead of Pat. He is one of the three living members of Boston College '92 . . . The Hackney Carriage Bureau will require all Boston cabs to have a partition between drivers and passengers.

"DEAR JUDAS," which didn't come to a Boston stage because of fear of censorship for blasphemy, was labeled a bore by New York critics . . . Roland Winters, latest Charlie Chan (the first two died), is a former Yankee Network announcer and son of a Boston Symphony Orchestra musician . . . Ginny Simms has made 500 music discs, besides playing in eight films and establishing herself in radio's top ten . . . The state's employment rolls are at a high peak of 755,000, with industrial payrolls close to two billion dollars a year . . . Frederick Coolidge Crawford of Cleveland, past-president of the National Association of Manufacturers, is a native of Watertown and sold hot dogs at Harvard Stadium to help pay his way through college.

The State Teachers' colleges may be incorporated in the University of Massachusetts . . . Concerning our story about possible establishment of a medical school, connected with the university, in the western part of the state, a member of the legislature claims it costs $5000 a year to attend Harvard Medical . . . First three-lane airway in the United States was established between Boston, New York, Washington and Richmond, Va. There are now 212 flights daily between the first three of those cities . . . The Junior Advertising Club stages a masquerade ball tonight at Hampshire House where all members and friends will be dressed as nationally advertised products. Life Mag will cover the party.

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—I submit this without comment as just about the limit in brazenness and effrontery.

Prominent among the "unfriendly" Hollywoodians at the House Un-American hearings is a young actor named Stirling Hayden. He is a member of that extremely peculiar group which also includes John Howard Lawson, identified as the holder of a Communist party card; Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall.

Like many of his ilk, this Hayden is a fellow of almost sickening personal vanity. He must hold the center of the stage or he doesn't want to play.

Young Mr. Hayden, also following the pattern of his stripe, is quite socially conscious. While bleeding for the "underdog" he likes to be seen with the "right people."

He arranged a little dinner party here in Washington. Among the guests, and not suspecting what she was getting in for, was a member of one of our most-respected families, the blonde and beautiful Miss Mary Benton Gore.

Actor Hayden apparently was quite taken with Miss Gore. He paid her marked attention. Bit by bit his conversation became more radical and suddenly he asked her why she was not a Communist.

TAKEN ABACK, but not wishing to appear so, Miss Gore played for time by asking why any American should want to be a Communist.

"Because," replied the actor "the Communist way is the only way of life. I would like you to read some literature on the subject."

He delved into a pocket and produced a handful of pamphlets. Miss Gore looked them over.

"I was shocked," she reported later. "They contained the most vicious Communist propaganda I have ever seen."

Miss Gore said she asked Hayden where he got such stuff. He gave her what she described as a "smart-aleck leer" and said:

"I have a pal who is the captain of a Russian boat. He is a wonderful old fellow. I wish you could meet him because I know you'd love him. His ship puts into San Francisco on regularly scheduled runs. He radios me every time he is arriving and I go up to San Francisco to meet him.

"He keeps me supplied with these pamphlets."

WITH A GREAT SHOW of pride, Director John Huston, spokesman for the "unfriendly," announced that five senators have indicated sympathy with his group.

He named them as Sens. Pepper of Florida, Murray of Montana, Thomas of Utah, Kilgore of West Virginia and Taylor of Idaho.

Good . . . night!

SEN. TAYLOR, to give you a rough idea, is the great brain now engaged in a cross-continental "Paul Revere" ride to warn Americans we should be nicer to Russia.

The horse-happy solon is reported to have changed steeds just out of Los Angeles, because he found his first charger was not comfortable. He changed from "Nugget," a spirited animal, to "Chuck," a more placid nag. I only trust he did not change horses in midstream because this might be construed as a slap at the hallowed traditions of the New Deal.

Sen. Taylor expects to make political capital with the horse motif. Maybe he will try to grab the presidential nomination as a dark horse's neck?

REP. MARGARET CHASE SMITH, of Maine, the lone female on the House armed services committee, took 500 lollipops with her on the committee's tour of our European occupation zone.

She expected the children, especially those in Germany, to go crazy over the confections. But when she threw the first batch to a crowd of children in Berlin the kids just stared at them.

Mrs. Smith began to cry as she saw her gifts lying in the street, untouched. But Rep. Dewey Short of Missouri came to the rescue.

He picked up one of the lollipops, removed the wrapper and went to work in the best juvenile "all day sucker" tradition. The kids stared, entranced. Then one of the bolder followed suit—and soon they were all pulling away at the suckers like mad.

I AM SURE we are all relieved at the news that Britain's austerity rule will not prevent Princess Elizabeth from having frivolous undies in her trousseau. She is having a batch made at $140 a pair.

Thank goodness she won't start itching during the ceremony.

ANY ECONOMIC SYSTEM can be accepted only as long as it serves to produce and distribute goods to the advantage of those who live within its scope. When the system fails, the human mind naturally resorts to remedies. The New Deal was offered as a remedy in this country after the collapse of 1929. The British have accepted Socialism not because they like it but because they have lost the tools for private capitalism. Such movements as Communism, Fascism and Nazism are results rather than causes; they are end products of the failure of private enterprise to perform its function, which is to supply and distribute goods and services.

The principle on which such a government enterprise as TVA is based is that when private enterprise fails to provide the service needed by a community, the government, even in a capitalistic country, must step in because it is unsound to leave the community without the needed service. This principle is new in its broader applications but has actually always been followed in the social services, in the operations of the post office, the national parks, etc.

Americans generally oppose this concept of the government function because they fear the expansion of government in the economic area; yet they accept it when private enterprise collapses utterly either because the service is too large in scope or because of lack of enterprise, lack of leadership, lack of imagination, unwillingness to take risks or even cupidity or stupidity makes private enterprise unavailable for the particular task.

I SPEAK OF THIS because I have been quarreling with an electric light company up in Sandisfield, Mass., where I have a farm. This quarrel has been continuous for about a dozen years. So far as I am concerned, I got out from under by buying a Delco plant and making my own electricity, which I find altogether satisfactory. My farmer neighbors, however, are poor folks living on the milk they sell and the wood they cut which, in New England, is marginal. They cannot afford Delco plants and such devices. In fact, on an eight-mile stretch of road, four farms are growing into brush because of bad roads and lack of electricity. It is typical of this area.

Last year the electric light company sent their man up our way to sign the folks up for electricity. Most signed. I signed for about 25 per cent of the total amount required for the entire service. Two of my neighbors did not sign-up because of personal difficulties. It was because of this that I increased my guarantee although I can get along without the electric light company, using the aforesaid Delco plant. The company finds that the signatures provide $145 a year less than their desire and therefore they are continuing to delay the installation. They lack the initiative, the imagination and the ability to absorb the $145, although they operate in a large area at a profit.

OF COURSE, this company has a monopoly granted by the State. It is a non-competitive business operating under the supervision of a state board. Between the bureaucracy of the state board and the lack of enterprise of the company, no interest is conserved but the stockholders' which is not wholesome, because it is a fundamental of the capitalist system that risks must be taken if profits are to be permitted.

When any branch of government guarantees profits, the economic system is not private enterprise; it is definitely Fascistic. Under Fascism, the state controls the process and guarantees a return. In this country, the stockholder takes the risks and with it a profit or a loss. Capitalism is a profit and loss process; it cannot be altogether one way. Every storekeeper risks losses on certain articles to make profit on others.

What is true of the electric company up my way is true of similar companies that want profits without risks. It is most often true of monopolies. And it is most often true of companies that operate in areas where the public is least able to defend itself. Such organizations do more mischief to the private enterprise system than all the subversive agitators. They provide a justifiable argument against it.

Assignment: America

Reg. U. S. Patent Office
By KENNETH L. DIXON
Distributed by International News Service

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Oct. 31 (INS)—It took several years, thousands of miles of travel, and countless, unforgettable experiences to learn the first half of the lesson.

It took only a few hours and a short train-and-bus trip from Manhattan to learn the last half.

But, reviewing the whole course now in this sprawling, modern, horizontal Tower of Babel called the United Nations Headquarters, the whole lesson seems unbelievably grim and bitter.

Slowly it came home the other day, when the UN Political and Security Committee was in session, considering the Korean problem—the question of whether all foreign powers should pull their troops, military equipment and such-like implements and personnel of war out of Korea.

EVATT BACKS U. S.

Without getting lost in the technicalities involved, it can be said that the United States stood firmly on one side of a dispute which was being waged with heat, and, of course, Soviet Russia stood on the other side. Other nations lined up according to the interests involved.

Among those holding forth for the U. S. point of view was Herbert V. Evatt, Australian Minister of External Affairs. Among those strongly opposing our suggestions was (surprise!) Dimitri Manuilsky, Foreign Minister of the Ukraine which, for UN parliamentary purposes, ironically is supposed to be something different from Russia proper.

But let that pass. This was the scene:

Under the lights, around the oval table sat representatives of half a hundred countries. Fanned out behind them sat their advisers and technical assistants. Then came the rows of press and then the casual visitors—if visitors at such a scene can be called casual.

At one end of the huge room, there were five glassed-in booths, each containing two interpreters who alternated at the earphones and microphones and rattled away simultaneously—and variously—in Chinese, Spanish, Russian, French and English.

Each official delegate, each idle visitor present could put on a set of headphones plugged into the general translation system. Then by turning a little knob to one of the various numbers indicated, like tuning in a radio, he could get whichever translation he wished of the words currently being spoken.

DISPUTE GROWS HOT

Moreover, he could watch the glassed-in cages and catch the gestures of the particular interpreter to whom he listened. And, as a final touch, if he chose, he could lift one earphone up and with his unassisted hearing simultaneously hark to the tone and inflection of each speaker in his native tongue.

Altogether, it would seem that the mode of modern human communication was mechanically perfect—foolproof, so to speak. Misunderstandings would seem almost impossible.

But it took only a few hours of listening to be assured that the gap between the debaters was horribly great and growing greater. The dispute grew hot, the translators grew eloquent, the listeners switched stations and the delegates grew irritable and restive.

Any sort of understanding seemed a vain and distant hope.

STRUGGLE FOR SURVIVAL

Then suddenly the first half of the hard-earned lesson came back. I remembered the Allies, and campaigns in Africa, Italy, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, the Phillippines—and how, in one campaign alone, I counted 15 different languages and countless dialects being spoken by the soldiers who fought side by side in the line.

But still we managed to push forward, and with few interpreters, for each man's need for companionship and his struggle for sheer survival made translation during combat a swift and urgent thing. Understanding, then, was no luxury but a grim necessity—full understanding.

And, of course, you needed no translation when a shell whined or a mortar screamed or a machine gun chattered madly. Men of all languages hit the dirt together. And the low and tortured moaning of the wounded sounded the same in the aid stations of all armies.

Thus the first lesson: No man could doubt that war spoke a grimly universal language.

But here at Lake Success it seems sadly clear that peace still babbles in a dozen different dialects!

Installment Buying Terms Become Easier

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) —Easier terms for many installment buyers are expected as controls over consumer credit go off the statute books at midnight tomorrow night.

The amount of down payments and the number of months to pay will be up to the seller.

The expiring controls require in general one-third down and full payment within 15 months for automobiles, radios, refrigerators, washing machines, and other major household appliances.

Some confusion prevailed at first over the precise timing of the expiration of the controls because of uncertainty over the meaning of the congressional resolution calling for their end "after Nov. 1."

Federal reserve officials decided midnight tomorrow would be the final official position.

Mail Order Houses Relax Credit Terms

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP)—The nation's two leading mail order houses, Sears Roebuck & Co. and Montgomery Ward & Co., today announced relaxation of credit terms on purchase of merchandise.

Beginning tomorrow, the companies will require only a 10 per cent down payment on all merchandise sold on the installment plan. This includes items which have required a 20 and 33 1-3 per cent down payment under federal regulations not effective after today.

Length of time for completing payments will be extended to a maximum of 18 months.

Rifkin Suit Lawyer Denied $5000

Atty. Michael T. Prendergast was turned down today in Suffolk Probate Court on his request for $5000 to cover expenses in a proposed cross-country probe of cruelties alleged by Herman L. Rifkin, wealthy movie magnate, in his divorce action against Mrs Anunette C. Rifkin.

Judge Robert G. Wilson said he would not order Rifkin, 63-year-old president and treasurer of Monogram Pictures, to pay the expenses of his wife's attorney at this time. He indicated, however, that Prendergast might again ask for his expenses when able to phesent a detailed statement of specific items.

In making his request for the money, Prendergast told the court he wished to investigate the cruelties Rifkin alleges his wife inflicted on him in Maine, California and several other states.

It's a Stinkeroo--Author Admits It

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31 (AP)—William Saroyan's first postwar play, "Sam Ego's House, or Angels Aghast," got its world premiere last night at the Circle Theater and it proved as odd as its title.

Like all plays of the Fresno writer it is peopled with unusual characters. The main figure is named Utmost Urge and he has four sons, Easy, Outer, Ample and Inner.

The action concerns the moving of a house across the town of Angels Aghast.

The play has flashes of comedy and brilliance but lacks plot and clarity of purpose. In a program note the author explains what his work partly means: "I stink, you stink, we all stink, but we are getting used to it."

The play has slight chance for Broadway.

Candy Materials Up 72 to 823 P. C.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP)—The National Confectioners' Ass'n reported today prices on confectionery raw materials have risen 72 to 823 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941, and "are still on the increase."

Cocoa beans had risen the 823 per cent. The increase this year since July 22 being 308 per cent. Prices on eggs were up 231 per cent, peanuts 210 per cent, glucose 97 per cent, sugar 95 per cent and milk 72 per cent.

"EXPERIENCE IS THE BEST TEACHER!

...in fencing
...in cigarettes too,"
says Elaine Decker
WELL-KNOWN FENCER

"EXPERIENCE in smoking many different brands during the wartime cigarette shortage taught me there are big differences in cigarette quality," says Miss Decker. "Camels are the choice of experience with me!"

I learned from EXPERIENCE — by comparing brands — that CAMELS SUIT ME BEST!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

More people are smoking CAMELS than ever before!

YOUR "T-ZONE" WILL TELL YOU...
T for Taste...
T for Throat...
That's your proving ground for any cigarette. See if Camels don't suit your "T-Zone" to a "T."

SMOKERS everywhere shared your experience with cigarettes during the wartime cigarette shortage, Miss Decker. They too smoked many different brands... whatever brands were available from day to day.

And, with smoker after smoker who tried and compared, Camels are the "choice of experience"!

Why? You'll find the answer in your "T-Zone" (T for Taste and T for Throat). Try Camels. See if the full, rich flavor of Camel's choice, properly aged, expertly blended tobaccos doesn't please your taste. See if Camel's cool, cool mildness isn't mighty welcome to your throat.

Let your own experience ... in your "T-Zone"... tell you why more people are smoking Camels than ever before.

Three nationally known independent research organizations asked 113,597 doctors — in every branch of medicine — to name the cigarette they smoked. More doctors named Camel than any other brand.

which might be weakly offered by British forces in Palestine.

U. S. CITIES PERILED

Russia is capable of waging war against the U. S. by long range aircraft and atomic or similar bombs over the Polar Cap.

Russia, by 1948, will have an air fleet with bombardment range of 4000 miles, or sufficient to place Detroit, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Kansas City, New York and Washington within maximum target areas.

Russia's ground forces under arms and the forces she can mobilize within 30 days give her two divisions for each American division with 243 divisions over.

British and American sea power can restrict Russia within Europe, Asia and Africa, except over the Polar Cap, unless Russian bombardment sinks that sea power.

Russia, thanks to the Smythe report on American atomic research and development, has been able to eliminate two of three possible research approaches and concentrate on one—the thermal diffusion method.

NO WARNING BEFORE FAR

The Russian scientist Brodsky is authority for the statement that Russia is using this thermal diffusion method. Russia could, following the detailed development of the atomic bomb in the same steps used by the U. S., have the atom bomb in 1952.

If Russia is as efficient in its procedure with the thermal diffusion method as was the U. S., Russia would have the atom bomb this year. If Russia produces on a basis only half as efficient as the U. S., its possession of the atom bomb may be delayed until 1949.

If Russian military leadership determines upon war, there will be no warning to this country before war starts.

The U. S. will be a first target, with no 2-year fighting of war by allies while the U. S. prepares.

If war comes, America's only hope of survival is an immediate counter-offensive through the air to neutralize the enemy attack potential, to reinforce or evacuate our occupation forces abroad, and prepare the way for occupation of enemy territory by trained ground forces.

The present maximum U. S. Air Force, limited to 70 groups plus 22 squadrons, calls for 401,000 air corps officers and men.

U. S. ONE-SHOT AIR FORCE

This force, however, is strictly a "one shot air force," capable of fighting only until battle losses of men and material weaken it beyond the ability to continue fighting.

The 70 groups, plus 22 squadrons, with 401,000 officers and men, compares less than 1 to 3 with the 233 groups, plus 100 squadrons, and 2,411,000 officers and men at the close of World War II.

Russia's present operational air force compares on a basis of 2 to 3 with her air power on V-E Day.

Replacements of obsolescence for the 70 group "one shot air force" require 2200 military airplanes of the newest type annually. This year the replacements amounted to only 590 aircraft.

Each new type aircraft requires its special tools and maintainance equipment. This is not being maintained.

As a warning system to alert American air forces of enemy approach, a 5900-mile communications network is necessary from Newfoundland and Labrador across Northern Canada to Alaska, thence to the Aleutians and our Pacific Island outposts.

TRAINING NEEDED

Another 3400-mile line of communications to co-ordinate American air takeoff points along the Canadian-U. S. border is a necessity.

Universal military training, to feed trained men into the National Guard, the Reserve Corps, and the Organized Reserves, offers a chance, the Air Policy Board was told, to supplement the first replacements needed for the strategic air counter-attack.

Similarly, universal military training can furnish the trained ground troops to back up the regular army in the necessary occupation of enemy ground—without which no war can be won.

Within a matter of a week or 10 days some of this picture given to the Air Policy Board may be released in a denatured form for public consumption.

The Hearst newspapers are privileged to reveal the hidden story today.

the jeep driver's arm and said softly.

"There's one! See'm over there?"

In the distance was a tiny creature, hardly as large as a goat, watching us intently. The captain slid gently from the car and took careful aim—too careful. As though by premonitory sixth sense, the roe deer bounded away like a rubber ball a split second before Miller squeezed the trigger. He didn't try to pot the fleeing midget, saying tersely,

"Waste of ammo at this distance—As I was saying," he resumed, "the sergeant wasn't any quicker on the trigger than I was just then. He didn't think the questions significant till the civilian was driving away. But he took the car number and reported it to me. A Frankfurt license.

"Immediately I telephoned German police stations around the area to set up road blocks. But somehow they couldn't find the car. It seemed to've disappeared in thin air. So we ransacked Weiden from top to bottom. No car answering our description."

The jeep driver whoa-ed down to a stop and pointed to the edge of a woods on a hillside. "See it?" he asked. Miller squinted, then reached for his binoculars, mumbling, "Maybe a doe," then, "No, it's a buck." He slid down a water ditch, crouching behind the embankment, and crept carefully along a fringe of woods. The roebuck resumed grazing while the captain's figure inched slowly through a pine copse. Suddenly it was gone in a flirt of brown fluff. The captain came back disgruntled and stowed his Mauser under the seat. "S' all fer tonight," he snorted.

"Then a night later," he related, "I was opening my windows before getting to bed when I saw a car racing through the streets—50 MPH at least. It was THE car! I telephoned the polizei again, but no soap. Vanished! We haven't got it yet.

"So that's why we're security-minded, especially when newsmen are mentioned." He grinned. "Of course we checked on you when we heard you were flying up from Straubing. We know you're okay. Still, I didn't want the guards back there to break down their caution, so I didn't say anything. But things aren't what they were around here a year ago, when the Czech border patrol would come over and smoke our cigarets, or we'd go over and chew the fat with them. We got along fine. But for some time it's different. Both keep to their own sides. Why? . . . Well . . . use your imagination."

MOST CZECHS FRIENDLY

Still American soldiers do travel to Pilsen and Prague, with special military passes and by keeping strictly to allotted roads. They report that most of the interior Czech people are friendly, with only occasional hostility. Still, the soldiers say, it isn't like it was a year ago, when the Czechs welcomed them with open arms. Now they're civil, but a little on the strange side. Why? Well . . . use your own imagination!

One of the shrewd Russian agencies in this zone, and especially near the border towns and counties like these, is the "Freie Deutche Jugend" (Free German Youth), ostensibly a semi-Boy Scout organization, which holds discussion forums, plays games and takes physical education training under guidance of carefully selected German "big brothers." Until a recent shake-up there were some 500 members in this town—possibly between 15,000 and 20,000 in the U. S. zone—all affiliated with Russian-held Germany, where the FDJ was sponsored and flourishes in vast, active numbers, as a Sovietized replica of Hitler's "youth mobilizations."

But now there are only 100 or 150 in Weiden, all tested young Communists. The rest were discarded as ideologically unfit. The new nucleus gets its orders direct from Moscow. I have heard what those orders are but am not now at liberty to tell. At the risk of seeming mysterious, I cannot reveal some, indeed MOST, of the confidences I have received from many reliable U. S. sources since I came to this zone. To do so would be betrayal of faith. There is no censorship here any more, but there are "restrictions." Thus the innermost, sensational facts about this FDJ, though known to our intelligence, must wait for later telling.

NO TENSION AT BORDER

I find no tension of any sort among the officers and troopers who man the Czech border, no war nerves, no worry—though they are only a thin, brown line, ineffective as a combat force. But there is a greater incident of hostility among the German residents, something more emphatic than the mixed scale of arrogance, austerity and servility one meets in the southern sectors of Bavaria.

"There's nothing humble about these people today," said one Constabulary officer. "They feel more and more than they are masters and we the guests." That's the old, familiar refrain that I have heard throughout my zonal tour. The officer quoted from Jacob Kaatz, 16th century Dutch verse maker: "When the Hun is out and down, he is the humblest man in town. But once he's up and swings the rod, he smites his fellow-man and God."

Typhoon Kills 6 In Philippines

MANILA, Oct. 31 (AP)—A typhoon which swept across the central Philippines, leaving six dead and heavy damage in its wake by-passed Manila to the south today and headed toward the China Sea.

At 7 p. m., the Philippine Weather Bureau placed the typhoon 30 miles south of Manila and said it was moving west-northwest. But the capital was still in the danger area.

The lashing gale heavily damaged two cities, sank one ship and beached three others.

Chelsea Mayor Sues To Halt Land Taking

Seeking to enjoin the Mystic River Bridge Authority form taking land in Chelsea by eminent domain, Mayor Bernard L. Sullivan and a group of Chelsea taxpayers today obtained an order of notice returnable Nov. 17, on their bill in equity brought in Suffolk Superior Court.

The Chelsea group is specifically asks that the Authority be restrained from demolishing buildings on Washington ave., Chestnut, Poplar, Williams and Walnut sts. The petitioners state such demolition would deprive 500 families of homes.

7 GREEK GUERRILLAS SLAIN

ATHENS, Oct. 31 (AP)—Press dispatches said today seven guerrillas were killed, one wounded and 27 captured in an engagement with government troops, 14 miles north of Salonika. Three soldiers were reported wounded.

Fire Dept. Gets 39 New Pieces

Mayor Hynes today purchased 39 pieces of fire apparatus at a cost of $595,693, first of which will be delivered in December and the rest during 1948.

Stating that the purchases were divided among six companies so as to speed delivery, the mayor also revealed that the cost represents approximately 7 per cent more than the city would have paid if it wanted to accept delivery over a period of several years, but the need of new equipment necessitated the quick delivery at extra cost.

The new apparatus consists of six 65-foot aerial ladders, 18 750-gallon pumpers, two 1000-gallon pumpers, 12 hose pumpers and one tower tractor.

Pilot's Son Sights Alaska Wreckage

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Oct. 31 (AP)—Wreckage of the Pan American World Airways Clipper that crashed Sunday with 18 persons aboard was sighted today on an Annette island mountainside.

Wesley Monson, son of Pilot Alf M. Monsen of the crashed airliner, said he flew over the wreckage and "apparently all had been killed instantly."

59,204,000 CIVILIAN JOBS

Celerity Beats Theory, Cop Finds

WORCESTER, Oct. 31—Scientific crime detection is all right, but a cop has to be fast on his feet, as Lt. Joseph P. Murphy demonstrated at 3 a. m. today.

Murphy looked out the window of police headquarters at Exchange and Waldo sts. to see his auto moving away. He sprinted out and chased it down Exchange st. The man at the wheel was bearing down on the accelerator when Murphy leaped to the runningboard, wrenched open the door and barged in.

The stranger, Frank A. Campbell, of Maude st., was found guilty in district court of using a car without authority and was fined $30.

Philly Quakers Get Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Nobel Peace Prize for 1947 has been awarded to the London Service Council and the Philadelphia Service Committee of the Society of Friends (Quakers), the Nobel committee announced tonight.

Brush Bridal Set

MARGARET "PEGGY" BRUSH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace D. Brush of Brookline, has chosen Nov. 15 as the date of her marriage to James S. Vandermade of New York, who was aide to V-Adm. Robert L. Ghormley, USN, during the war.

The noon ceremony will be performed by Rev. Ashley Day Leavitt in the Ashley Day Leavitt Chapel of Harvard Church, with a small reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Lewis de Schweinitz of Dorset, Vt., will be matron of honor and James Grove of St. Louis best man. The ushers will be William R. Brush and Charles N. Brush 2d, brothers of the bride; Bernard R. Baker 2d of Toledo; John Van DeVenter, Greenwich, Ct., and J. Angus Thurrott, New York City.

Mrs. William A. Carey

Peggy graduated from Winsor and Bennington College 1942 and belongs to the Junior League. Mr. Vandermade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abram Vandermade of New York, graduated from Princeton 1938 and Harvard Business School 1941. He completed four and one-half years in the Naval Reserve with the rank of lieutenant commander. The couple will reside in New York.

A SON, Robert Russell Carey, was born Oct. 18, at Faulkner Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. William Arthur Carey (Mary Cecilia Carroll) of Suffield, Ct. Dr. and Mrs. C. Russell Carroll of Boston are the grandparents.

MR. AND MRS. HORACE D. BRUSH, whose daughter's wedding plans are revealed above, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Terry Collens will be first nighters at the third play presented by the Theater Guild and American Theater Society next Monday evening at the Wilbur. The play by Tennessee Williams has the odd name, "Street Car Named Desire." The locale is in New Orleans where the street cars have fanciful names, one of which is actually Desire.

Other first nighters will be Mrs George W. Dunecklee, Mrs Alexander Steinert, Mrs. Lawrence J. Harrington, Mrs. Charles Lyman Smith, Mrs. Hugh Montgomery, Mrs. Henry W. Newbegin, Miss Shirley E. Fuller, Mrs. Ruth Wolfe Fuller, Mrs. Charles O. Richardson, Mrs. C. Christian Born, Mrs. John J. Prindiville, Miss Lavinia Sabine, Mr. Wayland H. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hosmer, Mrs. David J. Evans.

WATER COLORS by the late Ralph Weld Gray, well known [illegible] will be exhibited at the Boston Architectural Center opening with a private view and tea next Wednesday. Mr. Gray, a prominent Boston socialite, graduated from the Ecole de Beaux Arts in Paris and was a Fellow of the American Institute of Architects.

Mrs. Gray will welcome guests and assisting her as pourers will be Mrs. William T. Aldrich, Mrs. Gordon Allen, Mrs. H. Daland Chandler, Mrs. Henry Davenport, Mrs. Harold D. Walker, and Mrs Gray's daughters, Mrs. John B. Buttrick and Mrs. Alice Merriam Dale.

MRS. MERVYN D. TAYLOR, the former Rose Stearns Proctor of Brookline, who recently married and moved to Toronto, is so eager to remain on the committee for the Boston Morning Musicales she wrote that she can catch a plane at 6 a. m. concert mornings and get here in time to help with the committee work she has enjoyed many years.

The Musicales will be 20 years old Nov. 12 and the co-chairmen, Mrs. John W. Myers and Mrs. H. Parker Whittington, are planning a number of surprises for the opening concert this season. They met with their large committee yesterday at a coffee party at Mrs. Edward J. Samson's which re-replaced the usual fall luncheon. After planning the 20th season members recalled the early days of the Musicales when proceeds for the first year were only $192. Now the series nets thousands for the Boston School of Occupational Therapy and is the outstanding musical series [illegible] in the country.

Eleven new members were welcomed to the committee, Mrs. John O. Wilson, Mrs. Herbert L. Tinkham, Jr., Mrs. David M. Thompson, Mrs. Harold Fitzgibbons, Mrs. George H. Frost, Miss Patricia Spencer, Mrs. Nehemiah Whitman, Mrs. Thomas S. Woods, Jr., Mrs. John W. Myers, Jr., Mrs. Russell Williams and Mrs. Donald MacPherson.

2 Pastors Shifted, One Appointed

Transfer of two pastors and appointment of a third went into effect today after this announcement by Archbishop Cushing.

Rev. John N. Cunningham, parish priest at St. Thomas' Church, Millis, replaces the late Rev. John V. Cronan at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Beachmont.

Rev. Thomas F. Ferris, P.P., of St. Mary's Church, Rowley, takes over Fr. Cunningham's charge.

Rev. Daniel A. McCabe, assistant at St. Peter's Church, Lowell, becomes pastor of St. Mary's Church, Rowley.

Equal Remarriage Rights To Divorcees Sought In Bill

Both parties in a divorce action in Massachusetts would be permitted to remarry when the divorce becomes absolute at the end of a six-month period following hearing of the suit, under a bill filed today by Rep. Allan Roy Kingston of Somerville.

At present, the libelant is allowed this right, but the libelee must wait two years after the decree becomes absolute.

Man's Hope Lies In Faith--Compton

Without faith mankind would face a future of self-destruction. With faith the world, harassed as it is today, still could overcome its varied and perplexing problems.

This is the belief of Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in emphasizing the need of faith between nations and among individuals.

Writing as a scientist, Dr. Compton will make known his ideas in Sunday's American Weekly, magazine issued with the Boston Sunday Advertiser, in the latest article of the popular "My Faith" series.

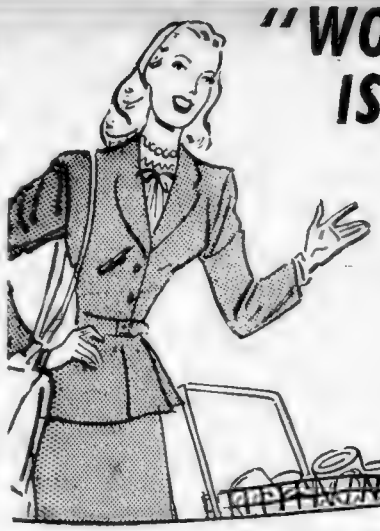
"WOMEN AGREE... EVERY DAY IS VALUE DAY AT A&P"



Most homemakers do their biggest food buying on Friday or Saturday — but that's no reason why good values should be confined to only those two days. And they're not at A&P! Fact is, you can shop here Monday through Saturday — and ALWAYS be sure of saving money on your food bills. You see A&P does not believe in weekend specials — it prices its foods at one low level and keeps them there all week long. Come — see for yourself!

Exercise Like Stars

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

LIKE SO MANY WOMEN . . . do you stand corrected? In other words . . . is yours a body your face can be proud of? You've seen pictures of Balinese women . . . noticed their litheness, their grace, their proud and perfect posture.

Remembering these pictures of them . . . stand in front of a full-length mirror. Look at the way you stand . . . the way you hold your head and shoulders . . . your chest and chin alignment. Now . . . walk toward the mirror. How do you walk? Do you have a carriage that others notice with envy and admiration?

How to walk properly, gracefully and charmingly is one of the first things a movie starlet is taught at the outset of her aspiring celluloid career.

Many of the movie gals have their own pet routines . . . certain exercises which they like to do and which do much for them. Take Columbia's starlet Gloria Henry . . . whose figure is an enviable one. Because fall fashions call for a slim waist . . . she concentrates on that part of her anatomy to improve the whittling. She has a few twists and twirls which are her favorites. Here they are:

HOUR GLASS waist whittler: Stand erect, hands clasped behind the head, elbows at right angles with the body. Keeping toe legs straight and together . . . and not turning the hips . . . Gloria sways the upper part of her body as far to the right as possible, then reverses the exercise

TUMMY FLATTENER: To achieve this, Gloria lies on the floor, arms straight at her sides, then slowly raises both legs off the floor and back to touch the floor above her head. She returns her legs to their original position and repeats the exercise 10 times.

WINDMILL: Gloria says it is easy to do and it is slimming in effect. Stand up straight, feet slightly apart, arms outstretched. Without bending the knees, lean over and touch the left hand to the right toe. Alternate with the right arm to the left toe. Repeat 20 times.

A basic posture routine endorsed by the DuBarry Success Course is another posture-perfecter. Dig your spine at the waistline as hard as you possibly can into the wall. Lift your chest up toward the ceiling. Push your chin in as far as you can, so that the back of your neck touches the wall. Next . . . move the top of your head forward so that not even your hair touches the wall. Now place a book on your head. Do you feel the pull of your spine as you balance this book? Repeat this exercise 10 times a day . . . holding the position one minute each time. You'll stand corrected, believe me!

With the conclusion of the "whittled-waist" exercise series today . . . we trust you won't conclude your interest or effort in the body-perfecting routine. We hope you continue to abide by these exercises daily for several weeks to come . . . until your mirror shows a happy reflection of diminished dimensions. Be sure and keep a weekly record of your measurements . . . even if your clothes tell you there's been a shrinking of the outline.

If you'd like to know your supposed measurements for your size . . . your height and build . . . we'll gladly send you a get if you write. If there are other exercises for specific "spot" reductions you'd like . . . they are also yours for the writing and asking.

Good luck!

WINDMILL . . . with hour-glass waists once more the vogue . . . pretty Columbia starlet Gloria Henry pursues a waist exercise (at left) which she says is easy to do as well as slimming in effect. Stand up straight, feet slightly apart, arms outstretched. Without bending the knees . . . lean over and touch the left hand to the right toe. Alternate with the right arm to the left toe. Repeat 20 times.

MORNING RITUAL for health and beauty as Warner actress Joan Winfield does it includes 15 minutes of daily exercises. This is a combination exercise which not only tones up the body . . . but slims the waistline and thighs. Joan sits on the floor . . . legs wide apart . . . and alternately touches her right toes with left hand, left toes with right hand. It is important to keep the knees straight. This exercise is especially favored by the stars.

SLIM AND HAPPY . . . and isn't that every girl's yearning? Gloria Henry follows the good old-fashioned exercise of touching the hands to the floor in her daily exercise routine to limber up and tone the body . . . before embarking on a more intricate and elaborate body drill. This exercise is a first-class waist slimmer.

BEND-OVER for body beauty, says Marguerite Chapman . . . who practices what she preaches. This bend-over drill which stretches the body and dissipates waist-line bulge is part of her daily drill. Marguerite does this exercise rhythmically . . . usually hums a tune . . . so that the sway of her body will develop dance-grace and suppleness. Do it 20 times.

Dressing Up Rice

By MARTHA LEE

(From National Food Editors' Conference)

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 31—If you could taste some of the rice dishes that we have had here in New Orleans, you would be convinced that well-cooked rice is one of the most satisfying of foods. There seems to be no limit to the number of combinations that can be achieved.

Here are some recipes that have been carefully selected from among many that are used in this old Creole city of New Orleans. They will give some idea of how rice is prepared and made such a delightful article of food in this part of the country

FRENCH JAMBALAYA

2 cups rice — 1 dozen oysters
1 cup highly seasoned tomato sauce — 1 tsp. salt
1 lb. shrimp — Dash pepper
1 large onion — 1 red pepper
2 tbsp. lard

Scald shrimp and peel. Scald oysters. Place 2 tbsp. of lard in large pot, preferably black iron pot, and allow to melt and become hot. Fry the shrimp and oysters in lard. When fried, throw in one large onion cut fine, and allow it to fry until yellow, being sure it does not burn. Add tomato sauce and allow to fry very little. Wash 2 cups of rice and allow to fry until it becomes coated. Add salt, black pepper, and one small piece of red pepper. Mix thoroughly and add 3 cups of water. Allow to cook on slow fire for about ½ hour. Be sure to cover. Serve in a large tureen or bowl. Makes 8 1-cup serving.

SOUTHERN DINNER

1½ cups rice — 1 bunch of celery
3 lbs. pork shoulder — 1 cup fat
1 tall can mushrooms, or 1 lb fresh — 3 lbs. onions
1 can (1 qt.) tomatoes
3 tsp. salt — 1 can lima beans

Clean and cut up the onions and celery stalks and leaves. Fry until transparent in ½ cup of fat in a heavy kettle or frying pan tightly covered. The steam formed makes this very hot and one must be careful not to get burned. Cut up the pork into small pieces. Fry in the remaining fat until well browned. Cover and cook slowly for 30 minutes. Wash the rice thoroughly. Boil in 3 quarts of salted water 15 minutes. Drain, shake dry. Combine all the ingredients. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) until hot—about 1 hour. Makes 7 1-cup servings.

CHICKEN AND RICE CURRY

2 tbsp. flour — 1 cup boiled rice
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
2 cups milk — Salt and pepper
2-3 tsp. curry powder
1½ cups chopped cooked chicken

Prepare a white sauce from the fat, flour and milk. Add seasonings, chicken and rice. Serve hot in ramekins. This is excellent if rice is used for croustade and the chicken curry is served in the croustade. Makes 6 ½-cup servings.

RICE PILAU

2 thick slices of salt pork, finely diced
3 cups hot water — ¾ cup rice
2 medium sized onions, cut fine
2 cups tomato juice and pulp
¼ tbsp. minced parsley
Salt, pepper and paprika

Fry the salt pork until it is slightly browned. Then add the rice which has been washed and drained, and stir until the rice is a golden brown, adding the onion meantime. Add the hot water gradually, cover and cook. When the rice is tender, add the remaining ingredients. Place the mixture in greased baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for ½ hour. Makes 6 servings.

"Thrifti-Trim" MEANS GREATER Value!

Here's a perfect example of how you save at your First National Store. As every housewife knows, the end of the usual cut of rib is not generally eaten when roasted. At First National, however, this end is trimmed off before you buy the roast. You get more good meat per pound when you buy the Thrifti-Trim way. That's why pound for pound, First National rib roasts are your best buy. This is known as the 7-inch rib roast cut.

Comedians Wow RKO Boston Audiences

Newest mighty mite of the Broadway stage, Joey Adams, teams with another champion, Tony Canzoneri, and musical com edy's skyscraping Mark Plant, to deliver a howling hit of a stage show to RKO Boston audiences.

Adams, and thus is far from incidentally, has shown the bigness of the heart that beats under his boy-sized shirt by contributing $82,000 to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund through sales of his grand book, "From Gags to Riches," and benefit shows.

It could be one of the reasons his comedy has that without-a-care-in-the-world spontaneity. In an act he put together for Canzoneri, Plant and himself and in which they have been touring with much success this season, the laughs were frequent and from where the vest begins.

Joey's "How now brown cow" diction lesson, with the six-times world's champ on on the receiving end, is very funny business. Her Miss, Georgia Gibbs, looking as good as she sounds, registered another hit performance. Opening with "Feudin' and Fightin'," she carried on, after resounding applause, with "A Fellow Needs a Girl" (from the "Allegro" score) and stopped the show with "Stanley Steamer."

The Juvelys, whose acrobatics are of the eye-popping variety, opened the show.

For fun fans, the management has teamed an action-crammed pair of reissues, "Each Dawn I Die," with James Cagney, George Raft, Jane Bryan and George Bancroft, and "Bad Men of Missouri," with Dennis Morgan, Wayne Morris, Jane Wyman, Arthur Kennedy and Walter Catlett.

There is no doubt that this particular blend of comedians on stage and baddies on screen is right up the RKO Boston audiences' thoroughfare. P. D.

Linda Gives Amber Lusty, Orchidaceous Portrayal

By PEGGY DOYLE

The most notorious bedtime story in what passes for modern literature, transferred to the screen by 20th Century-Fox, is now breaking all records at the Paramount and Fenway Theaters, disrupting Washington st traffic and proving anew the matchless power of advertising.

It doesn't take a quick-ed to know that the film very much a question is "Forever Amber," Kathleen Winsor's breathy best-seller about a Restoration tramp and her boudoir rise and fall.

Since statistics are so closely twined with this tawdry if fantastically selling dossier on whores it might be pertinent to state at the outset that Miss Winsor's prominent heroine has been whored on marriages, children and lovers in the firm with a number of the Hollywood Production Code no doubt.

In the film, she marries only once, has only one child and four lovers. In the book, she married four times, had four children and numerous lovers.

Nor does the picture go into dark boldly intimate detail as to Amber's amours. But don't, for an instant, think there is any delicacy about the lady's chasing technique or the vaguest doubt as to the waywardness of her life in the Restoration era.

In the original the story ends with Amber setting sail for America determined to win back Bruce Carlton, who the more he knows of women the better he likes his loyal retinue of canines is one of the rare bright spots in the notably repetitious, 14¢ minute long entrance.

"Forever Amber," it is reported cost more than $4,000,000 to produce and it has been beautifully produced. But that's a lot of money for such a conventional if pictorially splendid demonstration of how dull sinning can be.

light. His bored, mannered Charles II, who the more he knows of women the better he likes his loyal retinue of canines is one of the rare bright spots in the notably repetitious, 14¢ minute long entrance.

"Forever Amber," it is reported cost more than $4,000,000 to produce and it has been beautifully produced. But that's a lot of money for such a conventional if pictorially splendid demonstration of how dull sinning can be.

'Foxes of Harrow' at Met

The reviewers, book and film, have been applying a variety of unflattering adjectives beginning with "O" to "The Foxes of Harrow," pretentious 20th Century Fox production now to be seen on the met screen.

Our contribution to this "O" contest is orgide, an alloy resembling gold and used in the manufacture of cheap trinkets. Since comparisons are inevitable "The Foxes of Harrow" is to "Gone With the Wind" what orgide is to 24-carat gold.

Like the original Frank Yerby's novel, the film is a symposium of romantic clinches set in the years following 1837. The leading Fox is a dashing ne'er-do-well, the illegitimate grandson of an Irish nobleman, who wins the hand but not the heart of a haughty New Orleans belle.

A wedding-night quarrel is never made up until after their young son is killed and their vast plantation dynasty is almost ruined.

Rex Harrison, one of Britain's finest actors, is cast as the dashing Stephen Fox as well as the typical aloof Englishman with a certain bitter charm but without much depth. Maureen O'Hara as a love-resistant Southern belle is undeniably pre-war but incrementally prideful and unforgiving.

You could make a book of their reactions as the invariably ungalled ahead pot proceeds for this is a set piece concerned with set characters beautifully spotlighted in period costumes.

Gene Lockhart, straying from his usual meanie assignments, is cast as the remote beauty's distressed father who would help her to a better understanding of life too late. He, Victor McLaglen, Hugo Haas and others perform valiantly to give substance to Vera Ralston's period piece but in vain. P. D.

Champion Urges Teen-Agers To Enter History Contest

By JIM MORTON

Special to Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, Oct. 31—How $2000 and a college scholarship were showered on him as a result of winning the Hearst history competition was related today by Patrick McGarry, 18, former Bronx High School student.

A national champion of a year ago urged the country's teen-agers not to miss the opportunity to enter the Hearst awards contest.

"This year's competition is just now being organized," he said, "and there is plenty of time to brush up on your American history. Don't let this golden chance slip by."

By his '46 triumph, McGarry became the first parochial winner in the five-year run of the classic. He represented La Salle Academy in the lower East Side.

"I entered just because I liked history," Pat explained, "and hadn't any notions about coming out on top. But that's what happened.

"It meant the fulfillment of my ambitions. The Hearst papers awarded me $2000 in bonds, and I was granted a four-year full tuition scholarship at Manhattan College."

Rev. Brother B. Thomas, president of the college, said:

"Our council took this action in view of Patrick's outstanding accomplishment as a consistent and excellent student in high school, and in consideration of his exceptional achievement in winning first honors in the history contest."

The current awards competition, launched a few days ago, will open with preliminary tests in mid-November, and culminate in a final national examination Dec. 10.

Bringing Up Father

Strange Words

By George McManus

WHY SO HAPPY-MOTHER?
I INSISTED ON YOUR FATHER GIVING MY BROTHER A JOB AT HIS OFFICE !!!
HERE COMES YOUR FATHER- I WONDER HOW THINGS TURNED OUT !!
WELL ?
I'M WELL- BUT I MADE THE MISTAKE OF SAYIN' "WORK" TO YER BROTHER- AND HE FAINTED !!
-THEN SOMEBODY GAVE HIM A GLASS OF WATER AN' HE COLLAPSED ENTIRELY !!!

HENRY

WAIF

MYRTLE AND SAMPSON ARE GOING OUT TO PLAY GHOST, SO DON'T LET 'EM SCARE YOU!
I THINK I'LL PUT ON A SHEET AND "GHOST" RIGHT BACK AT 'EM.
WHOO!
OH, YEH? WELL, WHOO TO YOU TOO!
I DON'T THINK I SCARED 'EM THE LEAST BIT
HEY HAVEN'T GONE OUT YET! THEY'RE STILL IN THERE LISTENING TO THE RADIO

THE PHANTOM

DIANA, PROMISE ME YOU'LL SAY YES TO MATT TONIGHT.
OH, MAMA, I'M SO TIRED OF FIGHTING YOU AND MATT AND EVERYBODY..
QUITE A PARTY TONIGHT, MATT.
I HOPE IT'LL BE THE NIGHT, DIANA. LET'S GO OUT INTO THE GARDEN.
FOR THE UMPTEENTH TIME, PLEASE SAY YOU'LL MARRY ME, DIANA.
I..I..I.. CAN'T-! ..YES-
DIANA! AT LAST!

TOM SWIFT JR.

Baseball Fans Feel Chandler Is Wrong Again

By JACK CONWAY

BASEBALL COMMISSIONER A. B. CHANDLER has lacked support from the public in his controversy with General Manager Leslie O'Connor of the White Sox for the signing of George Zoeterman, 17-year-old schoolboy. Without even looking into the merits of the case, the average fan decided that Chandler was making a political decision.

When Judge Landis was the head man in baseball, he could make sweeping decisions that decided the fate of hundreds of ball players and they were accepted by the public without argument. There was the occasion in a case similar to that of the youthful Zoeterman when Judge Landis voided dozens of contracts the Detroit Tigers had made with high school boys.

The Judge would frequently make his decisions on the impulse and he would not even concern himself with giving the parties a hearing. One day when walking to the first tee of the golf course at Belair, Fla., the Judge hurried over to this writer.

"I have just found out," said Landis as if making a brand new discovery, "that there are major and minor league ball players acting as mutuel clerks at Florida horse and dog tracks. I do not intend to have any of our ball players associating with gamblers and unless they quit their jobs at the tracks they cannot play in organized baseball."

The ball players had to give up their positions as mutuel clerks under Landis' edict.

Ordered Adams to Sell Stock in Braves

THE REASON LIGHTS for night baseball were not installed at Braves Field long before they were, resulted from a Landis ruling ordering the late Charles F. Adams to dispose of his interest in the ball club once he built Suffolk Downs. Adams told this writer he would have liked to have installed lights at Braves Field and try to get some good ball players, but he felt it would have been unwise for him to have done so in view of Landis' ruling.

Bing Crosby was also stopped from investing money in the Braves due to the fact he was one of the owners of the Del Mar race track in California. Crosby later sold his interest in the race track and entered baseball in Pittsburgh.

There was no great amount of sense barring men like Adams and Crosby from baseball while they retained race track interests, but Landis had so much prestige with the public he could have his rulings accepted without much debate.

Chandler has never occupied such a fortunate position. He has had obstacles placed in his path since he entered baseball, and he has been a target for many bitter attacks. It was felt at the time Chandler was appointed High Commissioner of Baseball that it was political payoff for his efforts in keeping baseball going during the war. It is possible Chandler was done an injustice, but the fans refused to give him a chance to prove what he could do. They were hostile to him from the very start.

O'Connor Wrote Most of the Baseball Rules

LESLIE O'CONNOR, while secretary to Judge Landis, wrote most of the baseball rules, according to Joe Cashman, baseball expert. O'Connor probably feels Chandler has not interpreted the rule governing schoolboys correctly, and he was willing to make an issue of the matter.

Chandler is today in more controversy than he was when he suspended Leo Durocher. This time he finds O'Connor, one of the best brains in baseball, shooting at him.

Durocher was in the position of being tried in a baseball court for things that were in no way concerned with the Dodgers. Durocher's number was up when he was attacked verbally by a Catholic Monsignor in Brooklyn following his marriage in Mexico.

This writer was in Palm Beach, Fla., at the time. A member of the Brooklyn board of directors was also at Palm Beach, and when he heard the news about Durocher's marriage and the statement made from a pulpit by a Catholic Monsignor, the director announced he was returning to Brooklyn for a special meeting which would cost Leo his job.

Durocher now says he knows what Branch Rickey down in his heart would like to do in regard to his case, but that Rickey has a problem on his hands. Chandler will have the final say in this decision, too.

Priest and Zanelli Clash at Garden on Nov. 24

AL PRIEST will try to regain his New England middleweight title when he clashes with Ralph Zanelli in a 12-round bout at a Callahan A. C. show at the Garden on Nov. 24. Zanelli recently scored a decisive victory over Priest at Providence and feels he can repeat. Priest says he will be in better condition for the November bout.

O'Connor Still in League, Harridge Buffs Chandler

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31 (AP)—Club officials of the American League heard fr White Sox General Manager Leslie M. O'Connor his side of the Chicago clubs's dispute w Comr. A. B. (Happy) Chandler over the signing of a high school pitcher.

YO-YO—Typical lefty, baseball men will say when they see George Zoeterman playing with a Yo-Yo top during lunch hour at Christian High School. Zoeterman has received more publicity for signing with White Sox than the average major league southpaw receives in a lifetime. International News Soundphoto

All eight clubs were represent in a session called by league pr dent Will Harridge. After th hours behind closed doors baseball moguls sent out for lun and went right on with their co clave.

Earl Hilligan of Chicago, league's public relations direct said O'Connor stated his case a submitted in full his correspo dence with Chandler on the su ject.

The White Sox and O'Con were, in effect, suspended wh Chandler denied them "the pr leges of the rules" for refusing pay a $500 fine for allegedly v lating a restriction against signi a high school pitcher.

O'Connor was an early arri at the meeting site after Harrid asserted he was "still a memb of the American League," despi Chandler's request for removal the White Sox official from t baseball executive council.

Club representatives also cluded President Bill Veeck a General Manager Harry Grabin of the Cleveland Indians; Willia G. (Billy) Evans, Detroit Tige general manager; Gen. Manag George Weiss of the New Yo Yankees; General Manager Bi De Witt of the St. Louis Brown Vice President Calvin Griffith o the Washington Nationals, an General Manager Joe Cronin o the Red Sox.

Earl Hilligan of Chicag league public relations directo and two American League attor neys from Cleveland, Sec. Be Fiery of the Indians and Joseph Hostetter, also attended the ses sion.

One newsman asked Hilligan i there was any prospect that Com missioner Chandler would attend the session, and Hilligan replied:

"Mr. Chandler was not invited."

The officials declined to de scribe the exact course of actio expected to be taken at the meet ing, but one spokesman reporte "unofficially" that he expecte the session to be "complete within four hours."

"The commissioner's request fo O'Connor's removal will be take up at our Cleveland meeting," the American League president said.

In Washington, Clark Griffith president of the Washington Sena tors said his club will support Chandler in his controversy with O'Connor

"Chandler's action in fining and suspending the White Sox for signing a high school player be fore he had graduated is perfectly in order," Griffith said. "Every club knew the rules, and the White Sox defied them. We will vote to sustain the Commissioner, if a vote is taken."

Chandler in a statement issued yesterday from Cincinnati said the suspension of the White Sox and O'Connor was the result of a "direct diflance" of the ruling, which Chandler said "he will continue to enforce."

BLANKS BLANKED OUT

WILLIAMSTOWN, Oct. 31 (AP)—Only back who will be unable to play for Williams tomorrow against union is the injured Bill Blanks.

'Where's Jackson? Ask Elis On Eve of Dartmouth Game

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Oct. 31 (AP)—There was an air of mystery on the Yale campus today as both the Bulldogs and their Ivy League opponents of tomorrow, Dartmouth, prepared for warmup drills in the big bowl.

Yale has worked out behind locked gates all week and, although Head Coach Howie Odell has been giving the team strenuous scrimmage sessions, scarsely a word has seeped out about Levi Jackson.

According to reports from the Eli camp, Fred Nadherny and Art Fitzgearld have been running wild while Tex Furse has been passing like crazy.z But, ask the Yale supporters, where's Jackson?

There are two schools of thought about it on the campus.

One holds that the ebony bullet's ankle injury has failed to respond properly to treaments.

The other hints that Odell and his staff have kept secret Jackson's doings during the week, hoping to spring loose against the Indians a thoroughly conditoned Levi, ready to go all-out for the first time this season.

Jackson is not slated in the starting backfield which includes Furse, Nadherny, Vandy Kirk and Jim Fuchs, but latter in Jackson's old spot at fullback.

The same line that started against Springfield last week will open for Yale with Ed Pivcevich filling in at tackle for the injured Westi Hansen, whose ankle sprain of two weeks ago may have come around sufficiently to let him see some action.

MAINE READY

ORONO, Me., Oct. 31 (AP)—University of Maine football coach Eck Allen has unhesitating announced his squad "ready" for the state series opened against Colby at Waterville tomorrow. There will be no lineup changes, Allen added.

YANKS PAID $500

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 31 (AP)—The Newark Evening News said today that it had learned several major league baseball clubs have paid $500 fines for signing high school athletes to contracts.

The news quoted George M. Weiss, general manager of the New York Yankees, as saying that club had paid a $500 fine imposed by Commr. A. B. "Happy" Chandler for signing Alvin Johnson of Fond-du-Lac (Wis.) High School. The youth was declared a free agent.

Weiss said the Yanks paid the fine "without quibble," the News said. The News did not name other clubs.

Christmas shopping must be done and gifts given before Bowl fanfare takes over. Nevertheless, results of this week's games will have much to do with filling Bowl dates across country.

On the West Coast, the California-U. C. L. A. meeting could have lots to do with the final Rose Bowl selection for that section. Right now Southern California's defeat of the Golden Bears gives the Trojans the upper hand.

Texas and S. M. U. should answer the burning question in the Southwest. Georgia Tech and Duke can settle much of the Dixie dispute. Michigan and Illinois should answer the question in the Midwest.

Here's our viewpoint on Saturday's games. And please remember it is strictly a personal point of view, nothing else.

ARMY 40, WASHINGTON and LEE 0—We think the Army, with the strain of a 32-game winning streak snapped by Columbia, will become increasingly strong.

BOSTON COLLEGE 13, GEORGETOWN 7—A close struggle with Denny Myers' boys having the edge. Both teams full of fight.

COLUMBIA 21, CORNELL 7—Even after his magnificent victory over Army, Lou Little rightfully fears his trip to Ithaca. With Rossides pitching and Swiacki catching, Lou should do all right again. However, Cornell's Lynn Dorset should give Rossides a passing run for the money.

GEORGIA 35, CLEMSON 14—Wally Butts' lads should snap back after last week's drubbing by an Alabama team that looked like a Tuscaloosa team of more nostalgic days.

GEORGIA TECH 20, DUKE 6—When you pit a Bobby Dodd against a Wallace Wade watch for fireworks. We think Tech has the Roman candles to continue on its well lighted way to national glory.

HARVARD 7, RUTGERS 6—This is a pick that will get you any argument in saloon or salon along the East Coast. But we stick by our guess that the Crimson will win.

MICHIGAN 21, Illinois 7—If narrow escape and unexpected defeat can prime teams, this meeting should be a well primed affair.

INDIANA 19, OHIO STATE 6—Bo McMillin's boys have too much for their game opponents.

PENN 26, PRINCETON 0—Yes, we recall last year's game when Princeton snatched victory from defeat. But not again this year, not with Penn so loaded.

TEXAS 13, SO. METHODIST 7—The Longhorns and Bobby Layne go after their seventh straight win against unbeaten S. M. U. and we think they will achieve their goal.

CALIFORNIA 14, UCLA 7—We think Lynn Waldorf's boys will rip back after their loss to Southern Cal.

SO. CALIFORNIA 45, WASHINGTON 6—The Trojans all the way.

Other selections:

Texas Christian over Baylor; Boston U. over Fordham; Holy Cross over Brown, Cincinnati over Ohio U.; Colorado over Utah; St. Mary's over Detroit; Florida over Furman; Kansas over Kansas State; Kentucky over Alabama; LSU over Mississippi; Michigan State over Marquette; Minnesota over Pittsburgh; Missouri over Nebraska; Northwestern over Wisconsin; Oregon over Idaho; Penn State over Colgate; Purdue over Iowa; Rice over Texas Tech; North Dakota over South Dakota; Oregon State over Stanford; Temple over Oklahoma A. & M.; Tulane over Miss. State; Vanderbilt over Auburn; Virginia over Richmond, and Yale over Dartmouth.

HOYA, BOSTON—Georgetown Coach Jack Hagerty and fullback Constantine O'Doherty have breakfast chat at Hotel Kenmore. Hagerty is an old Dorchester boy. O'Doherty's from Woburn. Georgetown plays B. C. tomorrow.

Hoyas' Trick Spread Offensive Should Prove Puzzling to B.C.

By FRED HOEY

Georgetown's famous offensive spread, supplemented by a crack passer and reliable receivers, will get a thorough testing tomorrow afternoon at Braves Field when the Eagles of Boston College, who have been groomed to force Georgetown's hand, put on a defensive display against this dazzling attack.

The possibilities of this spread play are tremendous yet its execution demands split-second timing and all assignments must be carried out perfectly. Football hasn't a play that compares with this spread as a crowd pleaser. The fans can follow every move of the ball and the players participating in its execution.

To stop this play requires the utmost speed by the enemy forwards in forcing the passer. Tulsa, Fordham and N. Y. U. believed they had the dash and speed to spoil the spread but Georgetown's crack passer Elmer Raba, a Washington home town boy, proved too tricky and elusive at pitching strikes. This brilliant right-handed heaver completed 8 out of 14 against Tulsa and 14 out of 39 in the five games played to date.

So the thousands of fans who gather tomorrow afternoon at Braves Field are going to see a test between a team using a hocus-pocus baffling attack and another which believes it can stop it dead before it gets started. All of which portends a wide open game, just the sort the fans go for.

Considerable has been written and said about the strength and power of the BC forward wall, most of it merited, too, fans are inclined to overlook the presence in the Hoya line of two sterling guards, Richard "BUs" Werder of Buffalo (208) and Elmer Oberto of Collinsville, Ill. (206).

After his past experience with Georgetown's spread it is no wonder Coach Denny Myers has been priming his BC players for speed. Denny has little to worry about in John Kissell, his fast forward whose 225 pounds cover a 6.02 frame. But some of the other Eagle linemen have been receiving sprint drills all week to effect more speed and agility.

Georgetown is placing plenty of dependence on Louis Surman the Peabody boy in the backfield whose tremendous punting gives the visitors an ace in the hole.

B. C. PARADE

B.C. students will hold a torch-light parade and pre-game rally on Boston Common tonight in preparation for tomorrow's game at Braves Field when the Eagles meet their Jesuit College rival, Georgetown.

The parade will start at University Heights and the students will proceed down Commonwealth ave., via automobile. They will stop at the Kenmore, Georgetown's headquarters, and then go to the Common where the B.C. band will play.

B. U. 'Up' For Rams

"Buff" Donelli today completed his new experimental idea of cancelling all scrimmages during the week, in an attempt to give his Terriers a new lease on life for tomorrow's game with Fordham at Fenway Park.

"Our squad was keyed up too high for the last two games," he declared, "and I don't want them leaving all their football at Nickerson Field."

The elimination of pre-game scrimmages is designed to rest the team and give the boys a psychological lift. This new policy is a radical departure from the previous program of three scrimmages at the beginning of each week, and light workouts after that.

Captain Don Giles has continued to be the best looking back during workouts. He is kicking and passing better than John Toner, and in Thursday's session, completed 22 consecutive aerials.

Wingman George Boston will be back at his right end berth against the Rams, and this should give the Terriers a tremendous lift. The Swampscott product rates with the best pass receivers in New England, and his absence in the W. & M. tussle was quite conspicuous.

Art Boyle has completely recovered from his injuries which have sidelined him for the past two games, and will definitely start against the Rams.

Coach "Buff" Donelli rated Ed Danowski, Ram coach, one of the best pro-football players he had ever seen. Donelli ought to know, for he coached the Pittsburgh Steelers while at Duquense University.

Blanchard, Tucker Quit Gridiron for Army Career

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 31 (INS)—The Randolph Field Ramblers will have to get along without Felix (Doc) Blanchard, Arnold Tucker and Jim Enos from now on.

The three former West Point football stars have sparked the Ramblers to an undefeated season so far, but checked in their uniforms today to concentrate on their careers in the Army Air Forces.

The Ramblers have one game remaining on their schedule.

FENS GAMES OFF

Rain again postponed the schoolboy football doubleheader scheduled for Fens Stadium today. The games, English vs. Trade and Tech vs. Dorchester, may be played later.

Many Local Favorites In Halas' Bears Lineup

There's still enough of a New England touch about the Chicago Bears to make the coming visit of the Halasmen a homecoming for many next Sunday afternoon at Fenway Park when the National Football League champions tangle with the Boston Yanks.

Mike Holovak, former Boston College star, and Joe Osmanski from Holy Cross, are operating at fullback while Ray "Scooter" McLean, of St. Anselm's, is still a standout pass receiver and a marvel on defense.

In addition there are several others who are well known to fans in this area including quarterback Nick Sacrity who sparked Wake Forest to an upset victory over Boston College last year; Pennsylvania's Eddie Allen who was a nemesis to Dartmouth and Harvard; Louisiana State's Ken Kavanaugh who scored four touchdowns to personally beat Holy Cross 26-0 a few years ago in one of the greatest individual efforts ever seen in these parts; Mike Jarmoluk and Ed Kolman, a pair of Temple giants, who had many a tussle with Boston College and Holy Cross and a passer named Sid Luckman who is well remembered by Brown and Dartmouth back some ten years ago.

This same Luckman is now in his ninth year in the National League and the theory that age eventually catches up with professional gridders is certainly refuted by Sid. Right now, he is playing the greatest football in his career.

And speaking of age, Ray McLean is now 32 and is in his eighth year with the Bears. He is undoubtedly the oldest operating halfback in the N. F. L. but the Bears are still fully satisfied with the St. Anselm's great.

As for Holovak and Joe Osmanski, this duo has worked out so well that Dr. Bill Osmanski was finally able to announce his retirement two weeks ago to become a backfield coach and to devote more time to his dental practice.

HOLY CROSS STANDS PAT WITH BACKFIELD

WORCESTER, Oct. 31 (AP) —The backfield which did well against Syracuse last week will start for Holy Cross against Brown at Providence tomorrow. The four are Ray Ball at quarter, the Sullivan brothers, Bobby and Ray, at the halfback slots, and Veto Kissell at full. Injured center Jim Deffley is experimenting with a special knee brace and hopes to play against Brown.

S. CAROLINA FAVORED

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 31 (AP)— An eight-year-old gridiron rivalry will be resumed here tonight when the favored South Carolina Gamecocks and the University of Miami Hurricanes meet in the Orange Bowl Stadium.

Five Hub College Games Here Will Draw Crowds

By BILL GRIMES

There isn't any rhyme or reason for the five college football game traffic jam which will occur here tomorrow afternoon.

A week ago, someone came up with the idea to play the B. C.-Georgetown game tonight or tomorrow night. The thought might have been promted by the attendance figures of the four night games Boston College has played at Braves Field, 125,655. But the suggestion fell on deaf ears.

According to the figures released to the press, Boston College has averaged better than 31,000 for four night games. The Eagles would have maintained that average if they'd play the Hoyas under lights. But the Harvard-Rutgers tilt at the stadium, the Boston University-Fordham affair at Fenway Park, Amherst playing Tufts over at Medford and New Hampshire, undefeated and untied, tangling with Northeastern at Brookline, will slow down the turnstiles at Braves Field.

Dick Harlow is trying to patch together a squad to stop Rutgers. The scouts, who've seen the Queensmen in action, agree that Coach Harvey Harmon has a better club than the one which knocked the Crimson off a year ago, 13 to 0. Harvard has been operating for the past three weeks without some of its keymen. Harlow has managed, however, to sandwich a victory over Holy Cross between defeats by Virginia and Dartmouth. As usual he's not making any predictions as to the outcome of tomorrow's conflict with Rutgers.

After getting battered and thumped around by Purdue and William and Mary, the B. U. Terriers are hopeful of getting into the win column at the expense of the Fordham Rams who until last week hadn't been able to chalk up a win.

For the past month, the University of New Hampshire has been attracting the attention of New England fans. Head Coach Bill Glassford has had his Wildcats clicking all fall and they have beaten Colby, Rhode Island State, Maine, Springfield and Vermont, to become one of the three undefeated and untied colleges in New England. New Hampshire should not look for too much opposition from the Northeastern Huskies tomorrow at the Kent st., Brookline grounds.

Over at Medford, Tufts will be host to Lloyd Jordan and the Lord Jeffs of Amherst. It should be a close game with the Jumbos a slight favorite.

The Dartmouth Indians have little or no chance of beating Howie Odell's Elis tomorrow in New Haven. The Big Green managed to nose out Harvard last week but it hasn't enough reserves to cope successfully with the powerful and deep Yale squad.

The Brown-Holy Cross game at Providence should attract a capacity crowd and don't sell the Bears short despite the fact they've lost to Dartmouth and Princeton and been tied by Colgate. The Crusaders produced a strong offense a week ago against Syracuse, but if they go kibitzing with the "T", it's going to be a long ride back to Worcester.

With the forest fires under control, the Pine Tree State championship will get underway tomorrow with Bates at Bowdoin and Maine, odds on favorites, playing Colby at Waterville.

The unbeaten and untied Wesleyan Cardinals will be down in the Keystone State playing Haverford and the Trinity Hilltoppers, who also have a perfect record for the season, will be at home with Worcester Tech.

10 Undefeated Teams Lay Records on Line

NEW YORK Oct. 31 (INS)—November will bring a chill to the hearts of several pace-setting football coaches tomorrow. The list of unbeaten elevens is likely to shrink, thereby clarifying the Bowl picture and sectional championship races.

Major teams that will lay unblemished records on the line are Notre Dame, Michigan, Texas, Southern Methodist, Pennsylvania, Penn State, Georgia Tech and Virginia. Also on the spot will be Southern California and Duke, unbeaten but each tied once.

Notre Dame, turning on the heat only when it has to while waiting for Army, is a 21 point favorite over Navy. The Navy team found itself a fortnight ago only to be walloped by Penn last week.

Michigan wants to trim Illinois to assure itself the Big Nine title and a trip to the Rose Bowl. The Wolverines are 10-point favorites to turn the trick.

The Texas-SMU clash may decide the championship of the Southwest. The Longhorns are favored by six points.

Southern supremacy is at stake in the Duke-Georgia Tech fracas. Georgia Tech is an eight-point choice.

Penn, eager to avenge last year's upset, is favored to whip Princeton by 20 points. Penn State is given the same margin over Colgate.

Scanning the prevailing point odds, which took such a shellacking last Saturday, it would seem that Columbia should beat Cornell by more than seven points. U. S. C. should down Washington by more than 13½ as quoted.

In the propable upset department, there is California over favored U. C. L. A., Brown over Holy Cross, Tulane over Mississippi State; also Rutgers over Harvard if the Cantabs wind up the choice.

Point odds on other top games follow:

Yale 17 points over Dartmouth; Kansas 27 over Kansas State; Missouri 13 over Nebraska; Minnesota 20 over Pittsburgh; Northwestern 8 over Wisconsin; Indiana 6½ over Ohio State. Also Purdue 6½ over Iowa; Oklahoma 20 over Iowa State; Arkansas 6 over Texas A. & M.; Texas Christian 6 over Baylor; Kentucky 3 over Alabama.

Also Louisiana State 7 over Mississippi; North Carolina 7½ over Tennessee; Vanderbilt 19 over Auburn; and Wake Forest only one point over William and Mary.

TUFTS LACKS ONLY ONE REGULAR FOR GAME WITH AMHERST

Tufts will face Amherst tomorrow at Tufts Oval, with only one player, Gene Riordan, unable to play. Gene was taken out on a stretcher during the first half of the Northeastern game and, although he wasn't seriously hurt, he will be out for the rest of the season.

Freddie Hicks will start at right guard since Frank Steves has an aching back. The latter is expected to see some action because of his experiences. Hicks is one of the lightest linesmen in New England colleges, weighing only 180 pounds.

Two hours before the football game, the soccer teamms of the two schools will meet.

Governor Reopens Woods; Hunting Season Extended

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Massachusetts hunters are happy! Gov. Robert Bradford has announced that heavy rains have finally put an end to forest fire menaces; hence, the upland gunning seasons, postponed since Oct. 20, will be resumed at 12:01 tomorrow.

Because of the days lost through the closing of the woods, extra periods have been added to various seasons. Shooting of pheasants, quail, and squirrels in all counties, and hares and rabbits in every county but Dukes and Nantucket, will be extended 12 days.

The grouse season will open as scheduled, Monday, continuing through Nov. 20.

The seasons for pond fishing, as well as opossum and raccoon hunting, have been stretched 15 days . . . Fisheries and Game Director James Power stated that very little game had been lost in the Bay State fires.

At this writing, the woods are still closed in Maine and New Hampshire.

OUTDOOR O.O.'s: F. H. Lawrence, of Chelsea, agrees with our opinion that tests should be given aspirants for hunting licenses, in an effort to cut down needless accidents in the field and woods . . . Here's what he has to state: "The reason so many hunters hit other hunters is due to sheer stupidity on their part; they fail to sight before they shoot! To stop this, why not have every gunner carry a police whistle, and when he sees something he's not sure of, let him blow the whistle. If the object in doub' is another nimrod, he too, can blow his whistle. . . Again I say: stop, LOOK—then shoot!"

Who else has ideas on this vital subject? They will be welcomed by this writer.

At the recent cover dog trials for Brittany Spaniels, held in New Brunswick, United States owners did themselves proud, their clever canines finishing third in all events, and winning all but two of the 16 placings. Ray Goland, of Athol, captured the Neill Trophy, as well as winning the Shooting Dog Stake, with his Pepper of Louvel.

B. C. FROSH GAME OFF

The football game between the Boston College freshmen and the Navy team from the Fargo Barracks, scheduled for Alumni Field today, has been postponed because of rain.

Perfectionist Dorset Cranks Up Once Again

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 31 (AP)—The passer with the ly perfect record in major college football and the passer th the highest number of completions for a single game are likely to tangle in a pitching duel when Cornell meets Columbia here tomorrow.

PERFECTION—Cornell's Pete Dorset threw "10 for 10" against Princeton last week. He'll try to repeat against Army conqueror, Columbia, tomorrow.

Associated Press Wirephoto

Lynn Pickard (Pete) Dorset, the 150-pound quarterback who sparked Cornell to victory over Princeton last Saturday with 10 pass completions in as many attempts, is not listed as a starter but coach Lefty James plans to use him whenever an opportunity for an aerial offensive is in the making.

His opposite number on the Columbia eleven is Gene Rossides, whose 18 successes out of 27 tries gave Columbia 239 yards against Army and ranked him first in the country in completions in one game.

Before he rose from a third-string rating to spark the Big Red to victory over Princeton, Dorset's main task was emulating in scrimmage the passer of the following Saturday's rival team. His only previous game appearance was against Lehigh, when he completed two for two.

Dorset, a sophomore majoring in history, is a former ball-turret gunner and winner of the Distinguished Flying Cross. He prepped at Miami High School, but now calls Fairfield, Ct., his home.

Lawrence Boy to Start At Center for Colby

WATERVILLE, Me., Oct. 31 (AP)—A light drill today will end Colby's preparation for tomorrow's State Series football game against the University of Maine.

George Toomey of Lawrence, Mass., ineligible early in the season, has been reinstated and is expected to start at center.

MELL RATED SLIGHT FAVORITE OVER CIARLO IN ARENA BOUT

Gus "Pell" Mell, Canadian welterweight, will rule a slight choice over Tommy Ciarlo, Waterbury, Ct., in the feature 10-rounder at the Arena tonight.

Hubert Gagnier, Montreal, and Martin Tabor, Providence, will meet in the eight-round semi-final.

Other bouts on the card are: Tony Ricolo, North End, vs. Bernie Dixon, So. End; Ralph Regan, Medford, vs. Jimmy Ruzzo, W. Warwick, R. I., both six-rounders; and Timothy King, Quincy, vs. Joe Palazza, Roxbury, 4 rounds.

Hoyas Drill in Biting Wind

Georgetown's well-manned football squad took an early and brisk workout at Braves Field this afternoon, their final drill before they tackle BC tomorrow.

"It's cold, too cold for comfort," said Coach Jack Hagerty whose Hoyas have been playing in midsummer heat in and around Washington.

Lou Surman, A-1 kicker from Beverly, limbered up his leg with booming punts which were not helped by the cross-wind.

Dr. Ralph McCarthy, Red Sox physician who used to coach baseball at Georgetown, was on hand to greet Hagerty and the team. They are quartered at Hotel Kenmore.
